HEAVY LOSS TO CHURCH BY FIRE

St. Ann's, in Somerville, Suffers $40,000 Damage; Curate Saves Sacred Host

Valuable vestments and religious articles were destroyed and an altar to the Virgin Mary ruined by fire today in St. Ann's Catholic Church, Medford street, Somerville. Rev. Francis J. Butler, pastor of the church, estimated the damage at $40,000.

Rev. M. J. Manning, a curate, one of the first to arrive at the fire, plunged through the smoke to the high altar, where he rescued the sacred host. The fire did not reach the baptismal records.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. John F. Dowd, wife of a hoseman at Hose House No. 8, who lives near the church.

The fire started in the lower church or basement, probably from a defect in the electric wiring. It had destroyed many of the vestments in the basement vestry and was progressing toward the vestry on the upper floor when the fire department arrived. More vestments were burned in this vestry and the flames spread to the altars of the upper church.

A statue of the Blessed Virgin was destroyed and the altar upon which it rested badly damaged by the flames. The main altar and two stations of the cross near it were slightly damaged. The main altar of the lower church was scorched.

St. Ann's Hall, which adjoins the church, was scorched by the flames, but the interior of the building was undamaged. The damage to the hall is placed at $1,000.

GOMPERS, STILL SICK, AWAY FROM OFFICE

Washington, Oct. 18. — Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who left a sick bed to attend the industrial conference yesterday, was not at his office today. It was stated that he had suffered no ill effects from his strenuous participation in the proceedings of the conference yesterday.

Late Cable Bulletins!

LONDON—The fall of Kronstadt, the chief fortress defending Petrograd on the sea side and the key to the city, has been officially announced by the Finnish general staff, said a dispatch from Helsingfors today.

VIENNA—The Austrian National Assembly has ratified the peace treaty. The resignations of Premier Renner and the other members of the Cabinet have been accepted.

HELSINGFORS—A delegation of workmen at Petrograd met General Yudenitch, leader of the anti-Bolshevik army, and promised to aid him if he would not shell the city, said an official statement issued by the Finnish government today.

PARIS—Marcel Hutin, celebrated French political writer of the Petit Journal, stated today that the allies would not appoint ambassadors to Germany until the German government had handed over the German officials accused of war crimes for trial.

"Nobody Home" in Service Board, Says Niland

Representative Thomas A. Niland of East Boston, impressed by a constituent's suggestion that the operation of three-car trains in the tube contained an element of danger, telephoned the Public Service Commission for information. He says the following conversation took place over the phone:

"May I speak with Chairman Macleod?"

"No. He's in Chicago."

"Commissioner Stone?"

"No. He's in Chicago."

"Well, may I speak with Commissioner Attwill?"

"He's not in."

"The Secretary of the Commission?"

"He's not here just now."

"Well, may I speak with Mr. Brooks?"

"He's on his vacation."

"Let me talk with the Chief Inspector."

"Sorry, sir, but he isn't in."

"Any of the inspectors there?"

"No, sir; they are all out."

"Who are you?"

"I'm the messenger."

SLAIN WOMAN'S 'HUSBAND NEAR CRIME SCENE'

Witness Testifies to Meeting Broadwell in Vicinity of Parker House

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 18.—That Harry E. Broadwell, husband of Mrs. Lucina C. Broadwell, for whose murder George A. Long and Mrs. Isabel Parker are on trial here, was seen near the Parker house in company with a woman, a short time before Mrs. Broadwell's death, was testified today by George Morris, a witness.

Morris, who is twenty-two years old, was employed in Barre as driver of an ice truck and was called to the stand by the government. He said he had known Broadwell by sight since 1916. Witness har been in Barre since before Mrs. Broadwell's death, he said.

Shortly before the woman's death, said Morris, he met Broadwell near Mrs. Parker's house and held a conversation with him. He remarked at the time that Broadwell was carrying two umbrellas. About fifteen minutes later he saw Broadwell with a woman, but could not tell whether or not it was Mrs. Broadwell.

State Attorney-General Archibald asked: "In response to what Mr. Broadwell said during your conversation at that time, did you give him some information about the Parker House?"

Attorney J. Ward Carver, senior counsel for defendant Long, objected. The Court sustained the question, provided that the witness answer "Yes" or "No," saying that a simple monosyllabic reply would not indicate the character of the information given by Morris.

Morris answered yes, that he had given Broadwell information about the Parker House. Attorney Carvar filed an exception.

Hugh Boyce, a carpenter, told of being with Broadwell, and his friends Mason, Rising and Cheney until 9:30 or 10 o'clock on the night of Saturday, May 3, when it was supposed Mrs. Broadwell met her death.

PALMER HITS HOME ON WOMENS STYLES

Washington, Oct. 18.—Women will be "enlisted men" in the army attacking the high cost of living, it was stated today at the Department of Justice. Attorney-General Palmer is preparing an appeal to the women of America to sign up for the fight. The battle today struck home to the women of America, for it was directed against style. The attorney-general is planning a campaign to discourage changes in styles, thereby hoping to effect a saving in clothes.

FIRST SHOT IN LOCAL STRIKE

Teamster Who Did Not Go Out Gets Bullet in Arm; Assailant Escapes

Patrick Linehan, No. 30 Berkshire street, a stableman of the John P. Squire Company, was shot in the arm today at the Somerville plant of the company.

It was the first violence since 2,000 employes of the Cambridge and Somerville packing plants went on strike last Tuesday.

The teamsters did not strike, and Linehan and the others reported for work as usual at the Somerville plant.

Crossing the yard, Linehan heard a shot, caught a glimpse of a foreigner running and felt a pain in his left arm.

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF MANY ARTICLES

Washington, Oct. 18.—The wholesale price of many important commodities decreased during the third quarter of 1919, according to information collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in representative markets of the United States and made public today. Articles showing a decrease included beef, hogs, bacon, ham, lard, salt pork, mutton, wheat flour, corn meal, oats, rye, cotton and pig tin.

Butter, eggs, milk, leather, shoes, worsted yarns, anthracite and bituminous coal, coke, pig lead and petroleum increased in price during the quarter.

TROLLEY AND TWO AUTOS IN COLLISION

Lexington, Oct. 18.—In an accident in which two automobiles and a street car figured on Massachusetts avenue, near Munroe's station, a man and a young woman were shaken up, and passengers on the trolley car were given a fright. An automobile, owned by Ethel E. Gove of No. 14 Wesley street, Somerville, first struck another machine, damaging the mudguard, and then ran across the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway track, where it stopped. An instant later it was struck by a street car. The automobile was wrecked.

JOHNSON CANCELS NEW YORK SPEECH

Washington, Oct. 18.—Senator Johnson of California, who was to have addressed a League of Nations meeting at Madison Square Garden in New York tonight, today cancelled the engagement. It was announced that the Senator was tired by his recent Western tour and desired to rest before making further speeches.

U. S. ARMY TO QUIT FRANCE IN 30 DAYS

Paris, Oct. 18.—Except for a handful of officers and a few clerks, France probably will see the end of the American army in less than thirty days. The number of American troops has already dwindled to 18,000 and arrangements are being made to send them home within two or three weeks.

NAVY AIRPLANES ON RECRUITING FLIGHT

Rockaway Point, L. I., Oct. 18.—Five navy airplanes left here today on a trip to Albany and Burlington, Vt., for the purpose of stimulating recruiting.

Boston a Bluff as a City of Music, Says Russell

By F. J. McISAAC.

Boston's artistic pretensions, her society, her love of music and her pride were ridiculed and excoriated by Henry Russell in a conversation with me in New York which was remarkable for the vehemence and the eloquence of the director of Boston's once famous opera.

"Why dont you go back to Boston and revive opera?" I asked him, and opened the floodgates.

"Boston the Athens of America; Boston the home of art and the lover of music," said Russell. "What supreme pretension, what utter rot. Boston never did more than tolerate opera and bluff that it enjoyed it.

"If there had been the slightest shred of public spirit in Boston, if there had been any real love of music and a hope for the future of the Boston Opera House, a committee of Boston men would have purchased the settings of the Boston operas, the most beautiful scenery in the world, worth half a million at the very least. Instead they let an outsider secure them for a paltry $11,000.

"If they didn't care for me personally, there was no reason why they should not have continued the Boston opera with a different director, when Mr. Jordan, after five years of wonderful munificence, gave up the hope of making Boston like music.

"There never was a finer or more public-spirited man than the late Eben Jordan, but he never got any thanks for his efforts in behalf of art in that city. Instead, they accused him of trying to work his way into some of their stuffy little clubs or their funny society. A man who

LYNN BRIDE OF MONTH IS MISSING

Mrs. Mary Demoree, seventeen, bride of a little more than a month, who last Summer startled Lynn with a story of being tied to a tree and assaulted by three men, is missing from her home, No. 22 Elmwood street, Lynn. She is the sixth Lynn girl to vanish within a week.

Mrs. Demoree vanished from her mother's home, No. 13 Commonwealth avenue, Swampscott. She told her mother that her husband, James, was ill at home. He has not been sick. Her mother, Mrs. Minnie Mazzoli, believed the girl was returning to her own home.

The police of Boston, Salem and other nearby cities and towns have been notified and have begun a search for her.

Last Summer Mrs. Demoree reported to the police that three strange men had tied her to a tree in the woods between Salem and Swampscott and attacked her.

FAHEY MADE HEAD OF BUDGET BOARD

John H. Fahey has been appointed Massachusetts chairman of the National Budget Committee. He will start organization work immediately on the plan to induce Congress to adopt a Federal budget system in the interest of economy and efficiency. Mr. Fahey is a native of Manchester, N. H. He is publisher of the Worcester Post, and has been prominent as a publisher in Boston. He has served on many commercial bodies.

BRITAIN SETS FREE ALL SINN FEIN PRISONERS

London, Oct. 18.—An official order was issued by the government of Ireland releasing all Sinn Fein prisoners from Mount Joy Prison. A number were freed last night and the rest were released today.

Of forty-four prisoners, half are in the hospital suffering from the consequences of their hunger strike. Some are in a precarious condition.

WIFE ASKS $10,000 FOR HUSBAND'S LOVE

Rose La Rose of Cambridge has been sued for $10,000 by Mrs. Grace M. Brackett of Somerville.

It is alleged that the defendant has alienated the affections of Harry E. Brackett, husband of the plaintiff.

CHARGES BATTIS STOLE WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

Vermont Doctor, Sued for Divorce, Institutes an Alienation Action

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Oct. 18.—Charging that the affections of his wife were stolen by Walter W. Battis of Winthrop, Mass., well-known promoter of fashion shows in Boston, Dr. Merrill F. Prime of Barton has brought suit against Battis for alienation. The case will be tried in Orleans County Court.

Dr. Prime is the defendant in divorce proceedings being prosecuted here today by his wife. In his alienation suit he alleges that the quest for a divorce was inspired by his wife's love for the Winthrop promoter.

Battis was prominently identified with the recent Fashion Show in Boston, and is to direct the 1920 Boot and Shoe Show in Mechanics Building, according to Dr. Prime.

The filing of papers in the alienation suit gave added interest to the divorce procedings in Superior Court. Mrs. Prime charges that her domestic bliss was wrecked by the alleged infidelity of her husband with a number of women, including patients. She charged that she herself saw evidence of misconduct with three women patients. She said that she listened through a register in the physician's office.

She also charged him with misconduct with a Barton school teacher.

Mrs. Prime in cross-examination admitted that she was once engaged to Battis. She said, however, that this was years ago, and that she hurriedly terminated the relation when she learned that the promotor was married.

Mr. Battis toured Northern Vermont recently.

STEEL LABOR HEADS SEEK CONFERENCE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18.—General interest in the steel strike centred today at Youngstown, O., where the labor leaders have asked for a conference with the operators. It is the first such move in the Pittsburgh district since the strike was called. In the Mahoning Valley all plants except one are operating in part. The influx of workers from other districts continued today and Pittsburgh mills were well supplied with labor.

ENEMIES OF TREATY SEE DEFEAT

Fight for Amendments on Verge of Collapse; Final Disposition by November 5 Predicted

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 18.—There were abundant indications today that the long fight in the Senate to kill the Treaty of Peace with Germany was on the verge of final collapse.

Even senators belonging to the group known as "bitter-enders" admitted the defeat of the Shantung amendment on Thursday had dealt their opposition to ratification a staggering blow, from which it was unlikely to recover.

An eleventhhour filibuster, with Senator La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin, speaking for four or five days, was threatened by some of them, but the Republican leaders expressed the belief that they would be able to stave it off.

The treaty will be ratified, with reservations, by November 5, according to the views expressed in White House circles today. The fact that the administration circles admitted there would be reservations was generally interpreted as indicative that the White House has been informed by administration leaders in the Senate that a compromise on reservations, which will be hardly more than interpretative reservations, has been found possible.

PENROSE WANTS SPEED.

Senator Penrose is given credit for having counselled his colleagues to expedite final action, in view of the growing demand from every section of the country that the treaty be disposed of and railroad and other

BODY OF ARLINGTON GIRL SUICIDE RECOVERED

Arrangements are being made for the funeral of Miss Lillian A. Welles, twenty-eight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Welles of No. 920 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, who committed suicide by drowning herself in Spy Pond, Arlington, while deranged.

Her body was recovered by the Arlington police in about fifteen feet of water at the head of the pond, near the Belmont line.

GOOD WEATHER TO STAY FEW DAYS

The brisk, Autumn weather that sends the blood tingling through the veins, now prevailing, will last a couple of days longer, Forecaster Smith promised. It is ideal weather for the pedestrian, although slightly cool for the motorist. Walking parties through the Arboretum, the Fenway and other points of natural beauty are expected to be popular.

TREATY CEREMONY COMES NEXT WEEK

Paris, Oct. 18.—The ceremony of depositing the three ratifications of the peace treaty in the French Foreign Office probably will take place the latter part of next week. With the approaching effectiveness of the treaty, the question of the trial of the ex-Kaiser is again causing speculation in official circles.

MAYOR OF NEWPORT WILL RUN AGAIN

Newport, R. I., Oct. 18.—Mayor Jeremiah P. Mahoney will be a candidate for a second term as chief executive of this city. It had been generally understood that the Mayor would run again, but he had not personally said so until he made the statement while talking informally with members of the Board of Aldermen.

'Beauty Surgery' to Be Practiced at the U. of P.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—A new department in "beauty surgery" will be opened at the Evans Institute of the University of Pennsylvania shortly, as a result of the experience of surgeons in the war, it was announced today.

Dropped noses, saddle noses, weak chins and hair lips will benefit by the experience of surgeons in rebuilding shell-torn faces.

WILSON RESTS WELL; NO NEW SYMPTOMS

President's Improvement Continues; No Immediate Need of Operation

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The President rested well last night, the official bulletin issued at the White House at 11:20 a. m. today declared. The statement follows:

"The President rested well last night. There is no material change to note in his general condition. No new symptoms have developed."

The statement was signed by Drs. Grayson, Ruffin and Stitt.

There is no immediate need for an operation upon the President to relieve the inflammation of the prostatic gland, Dr. Grayson stated today, after visiting the President. Dr. Hugh Young of Baltimore will make a further examination of the President with regard to the prostatic trouble.

The daily improvement of the President continues, Dr. Grayson said.

DAILY AIR SERVICE ACROSS SEA PREDICTED

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—Daily air service between Ireland and the United States, with a landing place on the Long Island coast, is predicted by Lord Northcliffe in a cablegram received here by Joseph Steinmetz, president of the Engineers' Club.

"Daily air transports will eliminate most of the damnable misunderstandings arising from abbreviated cabling," Lord Northcliffe says. "The daily air service between London and Paris is more punctual than railroads or steamers and nearly six times more speedy."

MAYNARD NOW IS ON LAST LAP

One-Stop Transcontinental Flight Awaits Him After Derby

New York, Oct. 18.—Speeding from West to East on the last lap of his record-breaking trans-continental flight, Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, leader in the air derby, was expected to finish at Mineola, L. I., this afternoon.

The "Flying Parson" began the last day of his flight at 6:58 this morning, when he took off from Cleveland for Buffalo. He reached Buffalo at 9:24 a. m. and left for Rochester at 10:08:12.

Rochester was reached at 10:36. A brief pause for gasoline and oil, and Lieutenant Maynard took the air again at 11:06 a. m.

This time Maynard laid his course straight for Binghamton. Half an hour's stop at Binghamton and he will take off for Mineola, no further stops being planned.

Maynard spent last night at Cleveland, sleeping at a residence near Martin Field, where he had landed. Dawn found him at the field today, and after tuning up his plane he took off under ideal conditions. Before leaving he said that he expected to establish a record in reaching New York.

While at Cleveland, Lieutenant Maynard received instructions to prepare for a one-stop trans-continental flight. The route will be by way of Dallas, Tex., the only stop planned. A special plane is being prepared at Mineola for this flight.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Captain Lowell H. Smith, westbound on the return trip of the cross-country air race, left Chicago for Rock Island, Ill., shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. He spent the night in Chicago. Captain John Donaldson, eastbound, flying "Gloomy Gus," the smallest machine in the race, landed in Grant Park shortly after 8 o'clock. Lieutenant E. H. Queens, westbound, landed at 9 o'clock. Lieutenant E. C. Kiel, westbound, took off at 9:15.

SHOOTS WIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF

North Adams, Oct. 18.—Going to the home of his wife, Mrs. Della M. Coates, aged 43, from whom he had been separated eleven years, John J. Coates, aged 45, fired one shot from a 33-calibre revolver into her right breast this morning, and turning the revolver upon himself killed himself with a shot in the right temple. Mrs. Coates is in a dangerous condition.

LAND PASSENGERS OF BURNED SHIP IN N. Y.

New York, Oct. 18. — The French liner Chicago arrived in port today, bringing 220 passengers and the crew from the steamer Venezia, which was burned at sea off the Newfoundland banks. The Venezia was bound from Havana to St. Nazaire when she caught fire. The passengers and seamen took to the boats and were picked up by the Chicago.

ANOTHER MILLION CREDITED TO ITALY

Washington, Oct. 18.—An additional credit of $1,000,000 has been advanced to Italy by the United States, the Treasury Department announced today. This makes the total loan of the United States to Italy $1,620,922,-572.99.

The total amount of money advanced to the allies by the United States now amounts to $9,647 494.84.

APPLE "BOMB" THROWN BY IRISH HEROINE ROUTS JAIL SENTRIES

COUNTESS FIGHTS GUARD

Refuses to Be Stripped of Clothing and Hammers the Heads of Six "Viragoes"

By COUNTESS OF MARKIEWICZ.

Irish Member of Parliament and Heroine of the 1916 Easter Rebellion, Just Released From Prison.

London, Oct. 18.—After sentence had been imposed on me on a trumped-up charge, I was taken to jail, and there, despite the fact that I was a political prisoner, six viragoes took charge of me and stripped me until all I stood in was knickers. I refused to allow them to take them off and fought for half an hour, not scratching, but hammering and beating away at them. In the end they had to give in.

Barbed-wire entanglements surrounded my cell. In addition a regiment of soldiers guarded it day and night. But one night I stampeded the whole lot by throwing a rotten apple out of the window of my cell. Stricken with fright, four sentries cleared off and an officer turned out the guard. I heard him reprimand the sentries for running away. They said people were throwing bombs into the prison.

COUNTESS PLAYS HOAX.

The guards then were doubled, and after a while I threw out three lumps of sugar. Immediately there was a fusillade of rifle and revolver shots, and shouts of "There they are!" They pointed to the chimney and banged away into the air. Excitement prevailed for hours. I enjoyed it thoroughly until I got tired and went to bed. The shooting continued till daybreak at the supposed bomb throwers.

Things like this happen in Ireland frequently. The other night, at the artillery barracks in Ballincollig, three old cows ran into the barbed wire entanglements. Alarm for an attack was given, and 600 soldiers turned out to defend the place. They banged away with guns and revolvers and bombs at the beasts, and scored a great victory. Casulaties: Three bovines killed. The grand affair lasted two hours. Searchlights and all were going in full swing.

SEES VICTORY AHEAD.

I am going to Dublin immediately. I am again in the fighting lines. We are winning in Ireland, and I suggest that Universal Service tell the people of America that we have our centuries-old enemies and oppressors on the run.

I have not made up my mind yet whether I shall go to America. Much work remains for me to do here.

The whole charge on which I served four months in prison was framed up. The police committed a bare-faced perjury. They accused me of advocating a boycott against them and their children.

Chief Secretary MacPherson declared that the shooting of Police Inspector Hunt was due to an inciting speech by me. What I said was that police should be avoided, that girls should not keep company with them. The authorities "framed" it that I said every policeman should be shot. Never a word like that left my lips—not that I condemn shooting police spies in this country.

CALLS ACCUSATIONS FALSE.

When war is on, spies have to put up with the consequences and England did not condemn the shooting of German spies. I would advocate it if I thought it right, but I didn't consider it wise policy at the moment.

Many of the alleged outrages about which one hears nowadays are just pure inventions. Recently, in Clare, two policemen were reported as having been fired on from behind a hedge. Later thirteen great coats were found at the place. One cannot imagine thirteen Clare men going out with great coats on a fine Summer's night to shoot a couple of policemen.

Another instance is that of a policeman who could not sell his turf so he set fire to it himself and got a levy on the district for damages, though everybody knew the affair was concocted.

'Kill the Red Flag,' Is Warning From General Wood

New York, Oct. 18.—"There is no room in this country for the red flag. It is against everything which this government stands for, the home, the town, the nation. Kill it as you would a rattlesnake, and smash those who follow it or support it. They are enemies of the State, and dangerous enemies."

This was the declaration of Major-General Leonard Wood, commander of the Central Department, who came from the strike-ridden city of Gary, Ind., to New York to speak at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall under direction of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial.

General Wood was given a tremendous ovation, and when mention was made of him as the Republican nominee for President of the United States in 1920, men and women stood up and cheered for five minutes.

LAST OF FALL AMENDMENTS REJECTED

important legislation be whipped into shape for the regular session, which begins in December.

Without the formality of a rollcall, the Senate rejected the last of the Fall amendments, two in number, designed to limit the work of the American representative on the reparations commission to voting on matters connected with the disposition of German ships.

The defeat of these amendments leaves only two of the committee amendments yet to be voted upon. These are the amendment by Senator Johnson, of California, to raise the voting power of the United States in the League of Nations to an equality with the British Empire and the amendment by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, to provide that on any matter affecting any part of the British Empire all the dominions of the empire shall be excluded from voting.

BOTH DOOMED TO DEFEAT.

It is conceded that both of these amendments will be defeated, and the Senate will then turn its attention to the effort to agree upon a form of reservations. It is believed that the Johnson amendment will be disposed of with very little debate, and the vote may be taken early next week.

The debate on the Fall amendments was brief. Senator Fall, their author, conceded that the Senate would reject them, and announced that in view of this determination upon the part of the majority of the Senate, he would vote to reject the entire treaty.

He explained that the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee had hoped that the Senate would agree to perfect the treaty by amendments, but as this could not be done, the only reasonable course was to throw the whole treaty into the discard.

CALLS TERMS TOO HARSH.

Senator Fall declared that the terms imposed upon Germany by the reparation clauses cannot be carried out "except by armed force," and expressed the doubt that any serious attempt would be made to carry them out.

As to his own position in opposing the treaty unless amended, the Senator said he would never have to apologize for his vote, nor make any explanation to the people for his course.

Senator Knox called attention to the fact that under the reparation clauses the commission, in which the United States will have but one vote, will be called upon to pass on the question of how much Belgium should pay to the United States on account of the money loaned to Belgium by the United States.

Furthermore, he said, the commission might determine that this indebtedness should be paid to the United States in German bonds.

QUERY ON FOREIGN BONDS.

Senator Borah offered a resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the Senate how many bonds of foreign countries are held in the United States and by whom they are held.

The resolution asks for the amount of such bonds placed in this country since August 1, 1914, by whom they were placed, by whom held, and all other facts in possession of the Treasury concerning them.

It is the purpose of Senator Borah, when he obtains this information, to show that many of the persons holding these foreign securities are interested in the organized propaganda for the ratification of the treaty and the league covenant.

PERFORM GLAND OPERATION IN PRISON

Tissue Taken from Executed Felon Successfully Grafted on Aged Man

By Universal Service.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—The tenth successful operation in gland transplantation to be performed at San Quentin Prison within a year took place following the execution of Thomas Bellon.

The interstitial gland, removed from the body of Bellon immediately after he had been pronounced dead, was immediately transplanted to the body of a prisoner afflicted with premature age and a depleted physical condition. The operation was completed within an hour.

Gland transplantation as described by Dr. David-Kelker, is simply the grafting of tissue, resembling in many respects the grafting of budding plants or trees. Dr. Kelker has performed nine other similar operations at prison and his observation of the results obtained indicate, he declared, that all have been successful.

As described by Dr. Kelker, the patient on whom the operation was performed was a man sixty years of age but appearing much older. He was much underweight and appeared to be undernourished, resembling a man compelled to perform hard labor with insufficient food. For some time past his eyesight has been failing and his movements indicated extreme weakness, while his mental condition was that of a man who had lost all interest in life.

This condition generally describes that of all the prisoners who have been operated on at the prison, according to Dr. Kelker. In every previous operation, he said, an immediate improvement had been noticed, sometimes becoming evident within twenty-four hours after the performance of the operation. This improvement has been manifested by a restoration of failing senses, such as sight, hearing and appetite, and also a revival of interest in life and surroundings, indicating a pronounced improvement in the mental condition of the patient.

Dr. Voronoff Would Graft Organs of Dead to Bodies of Invalids

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 18.—The grafting of organs from the bodies of dead persons to the bodies of invalids who have been wasted by disease, was today advocated by Dr. Sergius Voronoff, famous physician, who recently announced the discovery of rejuvenating old men.

Writing in the Journal, Dr. Voronoff said:

"After death the most robust parts of the body retain their vitality for hours. It is also possible to conserve organs alive for several months by keeping them in a refrigerator."

Dr. Voronoff suggests that hospitals in big cities keep stocks of vital organs on hand for the needs of patients. He pointed out the ease with which the organs could be removed from the body of a person who had met with accidental death. They could be kept in special refrigerators and could be used to replace the worn-out organs of invalids.

SOUTH BOSTON TO HOLD "L" PROTEST MEETING

Plans have been made for a protest meeting against the present street car system, to be held in Columbus Hall, East Broadway, South Boston, next Wednesday evening. Invitations have been sent to all organizations in the district to be present, as the representative men of the Peninsula District are determined to procure better conditions for the residents.

Knights of Columbus, South Boston Citizens' Association, Trade, Moose and other organizations will be represented.

CITY MARSHAL OF CHICOPEE REMOVED

Chicopee, Oct. 18.—City Marshal John E. Barnes has been removed by Mayor Daniel J. Coakley, who prefers four charges, one of which is "conduct unbecoming an officer, in Enfield, Ct., October 8, for which you were subsequently fined."

A hearing will be given the marshal October 27.

Wash Women Demand $3 a Day, Car Fare and Good Meal

Add one more link to the endless high cost of living chain!

The latest class of workers to stretch the old pocketbook a little slimmer, are the women who go out washing and ironing for the day.

A wail of protest went up in the Brookline, Allston and Aberdeen sections when the women announced that their rate would be $3 per day. Formerly they were receiving $2.50 a day.

And the $3 a day rate includes car fare and a good meal. None of your left-overs, thank you, but bang-up hot meat and potatoes with dessert and all the fixins.

"It's getting awful," said one of the newly-weds affected. "All we women will have to economize to meet this increase. Why, yesterday, I went downtown, and the best thing I could get in undershirts was a garment for $6. And George says the car is costing more and more every day. And the girl I used to have come every day to take care of the baby now says she must have $3 for working from 8:30 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon.

"With the Fall cleaning confronting me, this last expense added to the recent increase in rent will make us all economize.

"I don't know what we are going to do. Of course, I take some consolation in my new furs. Have you seen them? Come right in and I'll show them to you.

"Are'n they a bargain? Only $475 for the neck piece and muff. So becoming, too. I'm glad you like them.

"When the woman comes I'm going to let her wash this hamperful of clothes and after she has ironed, and cleaned the paint and beat the rugs and washed the walls, I'm going to have her air the furs so that horrid moth ball odor wont spoil my new perfumery.

"What is it? O just a little bit of blended attar of roses and a new Japanese scent. It comes quite reasonable—only $6 an ounce.

"So glad you called," was her parting remark. "I guess I'll put the perfumery away or my woman might use that. Awful high wages to pay a woman, don't you think. Yes, I don't know what the world is coming to."

mingled with the great people of the earth."

"I would not say that Boston is less musical than other American cities, because none of them is really musical. Boston pretends more and therefore I loathe her hypocrisy.

"The Boston Opera House is by far the finest opera house in America. It is the only theatre in this country where opera can be properly appreciated, since everything about the building is ideal. Yet this exquisite treasure was bandied about and finally sold for a song to the Shuberts for Winter Garden burlesque shows.

"SERVES BOSTON RIGHT."

"It serves Boston right to have a succession of musical comedies and cheap melodramas in a house where once exquisite performances of "Pelleas and Melisande" were given to ears that did not understand.

"It did not take me long to find out that the alleged society element in Boston knew little about music, art or anything of that sort. They hated to come to the opera house after awhile, when the novelty wore off, and yet owning boxes they felt they were losing money if they did not use them. It was a pathetic dilemma, was it not?

"No, I would not strive again to give Boston opera. Chicago is not much better. If its opera survives it is because of the generosity of a single person, as was the case in Boston.

NEW YORK'S SUCCESS.

"New York's stars at the Metropolitan, the large foreign population, and the very important social features, make opera successful in this city, alone of American cities.

"Oh, Boston! There isn't a fourth-rate Italian municipality which would not have saved the wonderful scenery of the Boston Opera Company, and which would not have purchased the Boston Opera House for a municipal theatre, had it been located within their limits. And you let both slip through your fingers."

Russell has brought Maeterlinck's "Bluebird" to the Metropolitan Opera House as an opera and later he will bring the celebrated Belgian poet himself to lecture all over the United States.

ARMY MAY TAKE OVER WHARVES AT NEW YORK

Longshoremen's "Key Unit" Votes Against Return to Unloading

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 18.—The United States army may take over the wharves at this port as a result of the longshoremen's strike, it was reported today. Less than 2,000 longshoremen were at work following the action of Dock Workers Local No. 791, the "key unit" of the organization, in voting against a return to work.

President T. V. O'Connor of the Longshoremen's Union, against whose advice the men struck, told representatives of the Federal Shipping Board that the situation had gotten beyond his control and that he could do nothing with the men.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner, warned O'Connor that the enormous stores of foodstuffs rotting in the warehouses and on the piers was menacing the public health, but O'Connor said he was helpless.

Two hundred and fifty ships are lying idle in the harbor.

TWO LECTURES AT FINE ARTS MUSEUM

Henry L. Seaver will talk on "An English Portrait" at the Museum of Fine Arts tomorrow afternoon at 3, and Frank B. Chase will discuss tapestries at 4. The Seaver lecture will be in Gallery V. of the Evans Memorial Galleries, and Mr. Chase will speak in the Tapestry Gallery. The Credo Tapestry, one of the treasures of the museum, will occupy a prominent part in his talk. It is a Flanders masterpiece of the fifteenth century, much coveted by other museums.

TO CLEAR VIEW AT DEATH CROSSING

Following the fatal accident on Winn street railroad crosing in Woburn a week ago, in which two were killed, Mayor Bernard J. Golden of Woburn has asked owners of land in the vicinity to remove signboards which obstruct the view. The accident of last Saturday was one of a number attributed to the presence of the signboards. Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. R. Hill of Revere were killed when a train struck their automobile, and two others were injured.

HEARST PAPERS PRAISED BY ULSTERMEN

Commend Crusade Against League of Nations and Support of All Oppressed Peoples

Editor Boston American: We respectfully beg to convey to you the very sincere thanks of the Ulstermen's Association of Greater Boston for the very able way that the Boston American (and the Hearst papers in general) has put forward to the people of this great republic the great American principle of freedom for all oppressed peoples, and especially your editorials, which, by the way, are very convincing; the true spirit of Americanism which your paper shows, your defence of the Monroe Doctrine and your crusade against such infamous things as the League of Nations as it now stands.

Also, we commend the senators from Massachusetts, Lodge and Walsh, in their fight for the safety and the preserving of American institutions and denounce such trouble makers as the senator from Mississippi, John Sharp Williams, who by his very un-American speeches has disgusted all true Americans.

With best wishes for the American's continued success, and hoping that good will, peace and prosperity and freedom for all races will still remain the principle of the greatest country on earth—the good old U. S. A.—we beg to remain admirers of your great paper, which is the exponent of true public opinion.

Signed by the Committee on Resolutions, representing 700 Ulstermen of Greater Boston: Thomas McHugh, president; Michael Spellane, Patrick Mone, William F. Henderson, Henry Hastings, Patrick McQuaid and Thomas F. Holden.

Your Solution of the Traffic Problem Is Wanted

What can be done to improve the congested traffic conditions in Boston?

Traffic conditions have become so bad with the increase of automobiles and of pedestrians that all manner of plans are being advanced to remedy the situation.

Some favor making Tremont and Boylston streets one way streets. The merchants oppose this plan on the ground that it would cripple their business.

What do you think ought to be done? What would be your plan to improve traffic conditions?

Write the Traffic Editor of the American your solution of the problem.

GIRL, 17, ELOPES WITH WAR VETERAN

Lawrence, Oct. 18.—Complaining that she was ill, seventeen-year-old Catherine Ford of No. 20 Bunker Hill street, asked her overseer in the mill for a day off. In the afternoon she left home, telling her mother that she was going to draw her pay for the previous week's work.

Nothing more was heard of her until her mother received a telegram stating that she had been married to Fred C. Kinsella, a local war veteran, and asking her parents to "forgive and forget."

The couple were married at the Church of the Holy Rosary in this city.

The bridegroom is 24 years old, and saw service at the front with the 25th Engineers.

G. A. R. VETERAN IS JAILED FOR FIVE YEARS

Aged Rhode Island Doctor Is Punished for Fatal Operation on Girl

Providence, Oct. 18.—Having lost his desperate three-year fight for immunity, Dr. Albert O. Robbins of Johnston, eighty, was sentenced here to five years in State Prison for having performed a criminal surgical operation which resulted fatally.

The venerable practitioner, a Civil War veteran, was scarcely able to stand and listen to the reading of his sentence. In asking for a prison term, Assistant Attorney-General Capotosto said it was the most bitter official duty he had ever been called upon to perform.

Robbins was indicted late in 1916 for having performed the operation which caused the death of Dorothy Vivian Hughes, fourteen. He was convicted early in 1917 and immediately began a legal campaign, which finally reached the Supreme Court of the State.

The Supreme Court overruled the exceptions of the defendant in June, and remitted the case to the Superior Court for sentence. Sentence was imposed by Judge J. Jerome Hahn.

The death of the schoolgirl and the arrest of the aged physician three years ago caused a sensation not soon forgotten. Robbins was indicted, together with Walter L. Johnson, the girl's alleged lover, and accessory to her death.

During the trial his attorneys emphasized his age and his service to his country during the Civil War. The principal witness against him was Mrs. Florence Hughes, mother of Dorothy.

BOSTON FAMILY TO BECOME A CORPORATION FOR CHARITY WORK

AGOOS TO GIVE OUT $100,000

Penniless Forty Years Ago, Leather Merchant Knows Needs of Poor

Penniless, his worldly goods in a bundle on his shoulder, an unknown, friendless Russian in a strange country; forty years later a prosperous leather merchant, founding a $100,000 fund for charity—such, in brief, is the history in Boston of Lassor Agoos, the South street leather man, who has petitioned for incorporation of the Agoos Family Charity Fund.

The purpose of the unique fund established by this extraordinary man is to give, during his lifetime and that of his family, to organized charity, instead of following the usual method of bequeathing funds at death.

DAUGHTER EXPLAINS.

"My father has established this fund, in his lifetime, so he can see, with his own eyes, some of the good his money will do."

This was the way Leah Agoos, her youngest daughter, explained her father's action. Miss Leah spoke for her father, who was observing the Sabbath at the synagogue. And Miss Leah's dark eyes sparkled in all daughterly pride as she explained what manner of man her father was.

"He's a very smart man, my father," said the little lady, "and he is always thinking of others. You see, my father knows both ends of life, the poverty pinched end, when sickness, death or unemployment find you helpless and dismayed. Also my father knows the end of life where careful investment and hard work, and honesty and frugality and wise business methods find you with a competence and something over, to help those who need your help.

KEPT HIS EYES OPEN.

"My father knows this because about forty years ago, penniless, his bundle on his shoulder, he came here from Russia, alone, unknown, friendless, unable to speak the language. My father has made good use of those forty years in between. He started right in, so soon as he had landed. First he was a leather salesman. He saved. He kept his eyes open. Now he owns his own business and can extend a helping hand."

It was at the family home, No. 50 Canterbury street, that a loyal little daughter told of her father's life. On the subject of giving, she had learned father's ideas. "He has a warm heart, my father," said she, "and he has seen much suffering. He is, moreover, a good Jew, orthodox, but not fanatic. While following our religion strictly himself, he has made it one of the first rules of the fund that it shall be non-sectarian.

WILL NOT WASTE MONEY.

Any race, creed, or color may apply. But applications from private individuals will not be considered. They must all come through organized charity. My father thinks that, this way, money will not be wasted, nor given the unworthy. He believes in organization, and decent rules, even when it comes to gifts.

"What amuses us about this fund is that nobody in our family knew father was going to do it, till just a little while before the hearing at the State House. Not even mother knew, though she has been made president of the corporation. Father said to her, when he made her president, that this was the most important part of the charity, for it was mother's good sense and loving loyalty that had helped him make all his money. Therefore, he said, mother's good sense would help to see that poor people were benefited to the full extent of the last dollar.

"I think why my father has been able to give this money is because very early he learned the value of self-sacrifice and saving. Saving, please remember, not stinginess. Father, even now, would pinch a penny for a cause or purpose that he did not believe in. He would begrudge himself small amounts, a dollar or so, and then, in the next breath, he would spend $50 on what he believed in, with free-hearted generosity. And my father always said that if he ever had anything to give away that he would do it while he lived, so that with his own eyes he could see how it was being spent and whom it was benefiting. But this hundred thousand, as father told us yesterday, is only a beginning of a great fund he hopes the Agoos family will get together, each of my sisters, and brothers, and brothers-in-law adding to it, through the years, according to their means, that, in the end it may be a generous fortune, and go on forever to help the unfortunate who need help."

And when a young daughter describes her father, the words are in this wise: "He is short, and quiet and very modest. You would never get him to tell you what I have told you for him. And he likes to read—anything almost, so long as it is good. And for exercise he chooses walking. And all his amusements are at home and always have been. He is, first of all, a devoted husband and father."

MILLIONAIRE DUKE'S SON SUED FOR DIVORCE

© International

Mrs. Angier B. Duke, the former Cordelia Biddle, who is suing her wealthy husband for divorce. She was married four years ago when eighteen years of age. It was said at the time that the Biddles opposed the marriage and tried to prevent it by taking their daughter to Palm Beach to escape Duke's ardent lovemaking. The suitor followed her and in March, 1915, the engagement was announced.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—Divorce proceedings have been instituted by Mrs. Cornelia Biddle Duke of this city against Angier Buchanan Duke, son of Benjamin E. Duke, millionaire tobacco magnate of New York, and a decree is likely to be handed down soon, according to John C. Bell, attorney for Mrs. Duke.

There has been no court action as yet, but for some months past it has been known that the Dukes were living apart. The nature of the charges at the time of her marriage.

The Dukes were married on April 28, 1915, at the Duke country home, Somerville, N. J. They have two children. Mrs. Duke was only eighteen at the time of her marriage.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CHANGES ANNOUNCED

Mayor Peters has announced the advancement of two hosemen, who by promotion to lieutenants will henceforth receive $1,800 instead of $1,600. They are Daniel J. Gearin of engine 15 and Peter J. Donovan of engine 15.

The following are reinstated to the department: Patrick J. Burke of Julian street, Roxbury; Melville G. Moore, No. 95 Maxwell street, Dorchester; Cornelius J. Toomey, East Ninth street, South Boston; Joseph G. Wirth, No. 21 F street, South Boston; Charles F. Dolan, No. 16 Green street, Charlestown, and James J. Tobin, No. 21 Everett street, Charlestown. All resigned from the fire department at various times.

REGNIER TO DEMAND NEW LOVE CASE TRIAL

Pittsfield, Oct. 18.—George A. Prediger, senior counsel for Louis H. Regnier, against whom was found a verdict for breach of promise in favor of Mrs. Daisey E. Gohn of Philadelphia, awarding her $6,500 by a jury in Superior Court, will file a motion for a new trial and, if that is denied, will appeal to the Supreme Court for a reversal of the verdict on the ground that it is contrary to the weight of the evidence.

FEDERAL STREET TO BE REPAVED

A contract for the repaving of Federal street, from Milk street to Dewey square, has been awarded by Mayor Peters to James Doherty at a cost of $20,972. Wood block and recut granite block is to be used. Beacon street, from Massachusetts avenue to Raleigh street, is also to be repaved at a cost of $43,055 with wood block pavement.

COAL OPERATORS AGREE TO MEET WORKERS

Washington, Oct. 18.—The coal operators are willing to resume negotiations with the miners to avert the strike of 450,000 miners which has been called for November 1 in the bituminous regions of the Middle West.

Their willingness was voiced by Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of the coal operators of the central competitive coal field, the district involved in the threatened strike in a conference with Secretary of Labor Wilson and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

The conference will be held next Tuesday, invitations to the wage committees of both the operators and the miners to meet Secretary Wilson at that time having been accepted.

Chairman Brewster made the agreement of the operators to arbitrate further contingent upon the following conditions:

1—The miners must indicate their willingness to carry out the provisions of the so-called Washington wage agreement, which was made during the war. This agreement has until March 31, 1920, to run. But the miners had deemed it abrogated with the signing of the armistice and the return of peace.

2—The present strike order effective November 1, must be rescinded and work must be continued pending negotiations.

3—The operators will consider no reduction in the hours of labor, below the present standard of an eight-hour day and a six-day week. In addition to a wage increase of approximately 60 per cent., the miners are demanding a six-hour working day and a five-day week.

Pennsylvania Senator Protests; Walsh Comments on "Irish" Speech

Washington, Oct. 18.—Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania protested in the Senate against the occupancy of his seat by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi either as a place from which to make speeches or as a place to sleep.

It was from Senator Penrose's desk that Senator Williams delivered the bitter speech attacking the Irish race. When he entered the Senate yesterday he crossed over from the Democratic side and again seated himself at Senator Penrose's desk. Then he went to sleep. This action stirred Senator Penrose into a protest.

The Pennsylvania Senator sent to President Pro Tem. Cummins a note saying that he intended to rise to a question of personal privilege and state his objections to having the Mississippian occupy his seat.

FEARED MISTAKE IN IDENTITY.

The reason, as told in the note, was that all the visitors in the gallery received charts, and therefore would believe that "the sleeping Senator in the third seat from the aisle on the front row is Senator Penrose." To the imparting of such misinformation Senator Penrose felt moved to object.

Senator Cummins read the note and tore it up with a smile. Shortly afterward Senator Harrison, Williams' colleague, awoke the Mississippian and they left the chamber together. So Penrose was saved from making his speech of protest.

The speech delivered by Senator Williams did not appear in the Congressional Record yesterday. It was stated that it had been held out for revision by the Senator himself. The Committee on Printing obtained from the official stenographer an unrevised transcript of the speech, which it will hold for future reference.

NO ANSWER, SEEING "CONDITION"

The following comment upon the speech was made by Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts:

"In view of the obvious condition of Senator Williams when he made his incoherent and rambling speech attacking the Irish in America, I do not believe an answer to be necessary. Other Senators who wished to answer him agree with me in this viewpoint. The speech did not appear in the Congressional Record. Mr. Williams was again on the Republican side, dozing in the chair assigned to Senator Penrose."

Senator Lodge had read in the Senate a telegram he received from the Thomas J. Clark Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, San Francisco, in which emphatic denial was made that members of that organization, either collectively or individually, had threatened assassination, as charged by Senator Williams.

PLAN PERMANENT SERVICE CANTEEN

A permanent canteen or club for men in the military or naval service is the plan of sixty prominent Boston men and women who will meet in the aldermanic chamber, City Hall, Wednesday afternoon to talk over plans by request of Mayor Peters. Many of the men and women workers in the Common canteen, which is now closed, will be present.

O'REILLY STORY OF ESCAPE IS DENIED

Poet's Daughter Was Not Forcibly Detained in Newton Retreat, Says Dr. Mellus

Miss Elizabeth Boyle O'Reilly, writer and daughter of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, famous Irish poet and patriot, was placed on her honor not to leave Mellus' Sanitarium at Newton, according to Dr. Edward Mellus, in charge of the institution, which is free from gates and walls and more like a country residence than a place of confinement.

Press dispatches from New York, where Miss O'Reilly is reported to have been arrested at the instigation of her sister, Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, and committed to Bellevue Hospital for observation as to her sanity, declare that she borrowed oilcloths from an attendant at the Mellus' Sanitarium, wrapped her "institution clothes" in them and after donning another dress, made her escape by posing as a visitor to the guard at the entrance. This is denied by Dr. Mellus.

MELLUS DENIES REPORTS.

"There is not a bit of truth to what Miss Elizabeth Boyle O'Reilly is quoted as saying in the New York and Boston papers," said Dr. Mellus. "She has been at the sanitarium over a year. Pretty nearly all that time she had her liberty. Most of the time she was accompanied about the grounds by a nurse. She complained of being held here against her will. She was told that she was sent here by order of the court. She gave considerable of her time to writing a book on her travels abroad.

"Miss O'Reilly was placed on her honor while here. She asked to be allowed to take walks outside the grounds. As it was a reasonable request it was granted. Her walks were too long for the woman nurse who went along and it was necessary to change her attendants. She was always complaining of being compelled to stay here. We sympathized with her and tried to make her stay comfortable. She was given all kinds of courtesies.

BROKE FAITH, IS CHARGE.

"This sanitarium is not a jail. We try to make the place homelike. A stranger would not regard the institution as a retreat for people with mental disorders. The nurses wear no regulation dress, our object being to remove the sting of humiliation which appearances might tend to inflict upon the patients. We have no keepers in the usual sense of that term. Neither have we a keeper at the gate, for there is no gate. Miss O'Reilly must have been misquoted in her remarks about this institution.

"Miss O'Reilly had a lot of ideas about people persecuting her while she was here. She couldn't see our point of view when we asked her to refrain from taking long walks. She insisted on having her way, and we humored her, feeling that she would keep faith with us. But she didn't. From the way she is quoted in the papers one would believe she was behind prison bars while here. On the contrary, she enjoyed many liberties."

Dorchester Communion Service

The members of the Holy Name Society of St. Margaret's Church, Dorchester, will go to communion in a body at the 7:30 mass Sunday. The communion will be offered for the father of the spiritual director, Rev. T. P. McMahon.

Short-Legged Rider's 'Howl' Made Car Seats Lower

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 18.—How one of the smallest stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company mesmerized the company merely by a scrap of paper so that it changed the entire seating arrangements of its new coaches that its passengers, especially those of small stature, should ride with greater comfort, was revealed here today.

Dr. Austin Scott, ex-Mayor of New Brunswick, who occupies the Voorhees Chair of History and Political Science at Rutgers College, of which he was once president, is the man who accomplished the feat. Although the doctor is small of stature, he is a giant in intellect and has the diplomacy of a statesman.

The ex-Mayor has a Summer home in Granville, Mass., to which he goes as soon as college duties will permit. To reach it he has to ride over the lines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

For years he suffered inconvenience on the journey from New York, due to the fact that the seats in the coaches were so high they were agonizing to the small man as his feet swung from the floor. He could not give his attention to the wonderful scenery through which he passed. He had no trouble on the Pennsylvania Railroad lines, as the seats just suited him.

The thought struck him that all short-legged traveler on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, especially women, must experience the same discomfort and he decided to take it up with the company.

"HOWLED" TO ELLIOTT.

The ordinary man would have sat down and roasted the company in a complaint to a newspaper, but not so Dr. Scott.

The doctor wrote directly to the former president of the railroad, Howard Elliott, assuming that the company would be glad to receive suggestions from its patrons in correcting defects. He stated his grievance.

Evidently his letter made an impression on Mr. Elliott, for, after apologizing to Dr. Scott for not answering sooner, he wrote:

"You are correct in assuming that we welcome suggestions that will help remedy any defects in our equipment or service. Particularly do we welcome any suggestions from our stockholders. I thank you very much for writing as you do.

"Yours very truly,
"HOWARD ELLIOTT."

Mr. Elliott took up Dr. Scott's suggestion with other officers of the road, with the result that it was acted upon and the following extract is from a letter of an executive of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, to the New Brunswick man of what had been accomplished:

BETTER FOR "SHORT LEGS."

"I wish to say that competent representatives of our mechanical department made careful inspection of the various kinds of modern equipment that are operated by other large railroads in this territory. After giving careful consideration to the different designs, we have arranged to have the seats in all our standard passenger equipment, one inch lower than our present standard. This, I think, will overcome the criticism made by you."

Dr. Scott incidentally mentioned what the railroad had done for him to the members of his Rutgers class and told them if they ever had the necessity to make a complaint to public service officials as he had, the only way to do it was by writing a nice letter, not any angry one.

Mr. Elliott is now president of the Northern Pacific railroad and a director of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

26,000,000 Pounds of Sugar Received Here in Last 17 Days

With thousands of candy factory employes facing unemployment as a result of the sugar shortage, and many housewives unable to buy sugar in any quantity, the American learned today that 26,000,000 pounds of sugar arrived in Boston during the first seventeen days of this month.

"Where is all this sugar going," was the question asked today by the persons more seriously affected.

Prominent retail grocers say that in the face of this big shipment to Boston they are unable to get only a small fraction of what they need to supply their customers.

The sugar importation was revealed in a report from the Marine Department at the Custom House. The government records show that 26,008,640 pounds of sugar have arrived in five cargoes since the first of October.

Of this amount 1,560,952 pounds were shipped out, leaving a balance of 24,447,688 pounds in the Boston district.

CUT IN ONE PLANT.

The total shipment of sugar for seventeen days of this month exceeds that for all of October, 1918, when the imports were 24,955,930 pounds.

The situation in the candy industry is so alarming that the State Commission on the Necessities of Life is conferring with the larger manufacturers. One plant where 500 men and women are employed has reduced the working week to four days. It and others are threatened with a complete shutdown, with no relief for the sugar shortage in sight. One of the biggest sugar refineries has laid off more than 30 per cent. of its employes.

Other industries affected by the shortage include bottling works, bakers, medicine manufacturers, fruit preservers and condensed milk producers. Many other industries acting as the supply houses for these big manufacturers would be automatically affected.

Thousands of employes working in paper box factories and many workers employed in the can making industry would be materially affected, as well as many industrial plants, such as those who supply their finished products to other manufacturers exclusively, having no other trade but the big candy makers and canning houses.

SHORTAGE WORSE THAN EVER.

During the Fall of 1917, 1918 and this year there has been a sugar shortage much in evidence among the candy makers. This year, according to the manufacturers, the shortage is even worse than in previous years. It broke without warning this year, say the candy makers, whereas in 1917 and 1918 there was some indication that there was to be a shortage.

The shortage in the Fall, according to the candy makers, is due to the fact that the crop which is harvested the latter part of December and first of January of each year, is nearly depleted as the end of the year draws close. The dealers say that if they can exist until the first of the year they will again go onto schedule.

The biggest manufacturers in Boston today are not filling over 50 per cent. of the orders now on file. In some cases today they are able to fill only 30 per cent. This means that the Christmas candy supply which in years previous has always been a big trade will be cut to less than one-half.

W. H. Belcher, president of the New England Manufacturing Confectioners' Association, with headquarters at No. 10 Court street, and also general manager of the Walter M. Lowney Chocolate Company, speaking on the shortage, said:

"No sugar, no candy. No candy, no need for boxes. No boxes means no work for thousands. However, we are doing all that we can to hold our organization together. Other factories have closed for a day or more during the past few weeks because they have had no sugar to work with. We are in the same fix as other factories, while we have not been forced to close yet there is no telling when we might have to.

CLOSE TWO DAYS A WEEK.

"The closing, however," said Mr. Belcher, "would be for only a day or so, possibly two days of the week.

"We are receiving some sugar, between 30 and 50 per cent. of what we used in normal times, which was something less than a hundred barrels a day. As a result of the limitations set by the Equalization Board we are not able to fill our orders as we should like to."

Mr. Belcher, speaking of the sugar men from Canada selling sugar to the candy industries of Boston said: "There are two reasons why this was bought. One from the fact that the buyer wished to keep his organization intact and to do it he must have sugar and the other reason was that he wanted to fill his orders which he had agreed to do in order to keep good faith with his customers. There is nothing else that I can attribute this to.

"I have been approached by a man from New York within a day or so, and I could have bought sugar that he offered for sale at 20 cents a pound. I have had several offers to purchase large quantities at 15 and 18 cents a pound."

$50,000 ASKED IN SIX AUTO ACTIONS

Maynard Man Also Seeks $10,000 for Alleged Alienation of Affections

Death and injuries received in automobile accidents figure in six suits totalling $50,000 in damages asked, which have been filed in the Middlesex Superior Civil Court at East Cambridge.

Charles H. Dearborn of Somerville has been sued for $10,000 by Effie Buchanan of Somerville, as administratrix of the estate of Clinton H. Buchanan of Somerville. It is alleged the deceased was struck by the defendant's automobile and received injuries from which he died.

Charles M. Turner of Worcester is the defendant in two suits, each for $5,000 brought by William H. Murphy and Frank Fahey of Marlboro. They allege that their automobile was damaged when the defendant's machine collided with it.

John M. Lentz of Jamaica Plain has been sued for $10,000 by Simon Pastelecha of Worcester. He alleges that while riding a motorcycle between Shrewsbury and Northboro he was injured when the defendant's automobile struck the motorcycle.

William A. Cole of Framingham has been sued for $15,000 by Margaret F. Poor of Framingham. She alleges that while in the defendant's store in Framingham she fell down a stairway and was severely injured.

Emma F. Hodges of New York city has been sued for $10,000 by Leola M. Staine of Cambridge. She alleges that she was struck by the defendant's automobile and was severely injured.

Matti Ockart of Maynard has been sued for $10,000 by Antti Tormalehto of Maynard. He alleges that the defendant has alienated the affections of his wife, Mrs. Lempi Tormalehto.

DOLLAR-A-POUND TURKEY IS COMING

With Thanksgiving still a month and more away the price of turkey is already sixty to seventy cents a pound.

Indications are that the supply will be very much curtailed. Only a small number of producers announce an increase in their output. The majority report a reduced supply. Texas alone heralds an improvement in her flocks and expects to ship about 400 carloads. Real Vermont turkey may soar as high as one dollar per pound.

SON SUPPORTS ACCUSATION OF STOKES

Affidavit Admits Charge of Impropriety with Father's Wife

By Universal Service.

New York, Oct. 18.—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel owner, has filed in the Supreme Court the papers in his suit for a divorce from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes. Among the affidavits attached to the complaint is one signed by his son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., named as one of the corespondents, in which he admits that his father's accusation is true.

Others named by Stokes are Roland Miller, step-brother of Mrs. Stokes, Harold Billig, her cousin, one George Schroter, and other persons unknown to the plaintiff.

Replying to Mrs. Stokes' counterclaim for separation, with alimony and custody of their two children, Stokes says the $500,000 a year income mentioned by his wife is merely imaginary. His farm at Lexington, Ky., he says, instead of being worth $1,000,000, is assessed at $60,000 and is a liability rather than an asset. He asks that he be given custody of the children. He also denies his wife's allegation of conspiracy.

Mrs. Stokes, he declared, scratched his face and used abusive language when he refused to provide her with a separate dwelling place on Fifth or Park avenue, with an allowance of $24,000 a year. Mrs. Stokes today filed another action to revoke a deed by which she signed away her dower rights in 1911.

MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT WHILE IN CLUBROOM

The police are investigating the wounding of Henry Linehard, aged twenty, of No. 65 Concord avenue, Somerville. According to the police, Linehard was in a room of the Cardinal Outing Club, Metropolitan square, Somerville, when he was wounded in the shoulder and cheek.

The police say that it is a bullet wound, and that the bullet evidently hit the shoulder and glanced to the cheek. Linehard was taken to the Central Street Hospital. According to the police, Gabriel Pas of No. 9 Carleton street, Somerville, was in the room with Linehard at the time.

FREE VERSE POET IN SPAIN APES AMY LOWELL

"Ultraist" Inspired by Prosaic Trolley to Pen "Modernist Movement" Lines

Miss Amy Lowell, Boston's noted woman exponent of free verse, must look to her laurels.

Someone over in Spain is trying to "rival her stuff."

There's a new school of poetry over there which has been discovered by the Christian Science Monitor.

Miss Lowell's famous poem which tells about the joys of the carpenter seeing the shavings fall and breathing in the odors of the sawdust, is challenged now by the new Spanish modernist movement birthed under the cognomen of "Ultra."

The "Ultra" movement says in its manifesto, that in its belief, "there will be a place for all tendencies without distinction, as long as they express a new striving."

Here's one of the strives, a poem to a street car:

Rrrrrrrrrr . . .
The brakes
rrrrrrrrr
Bite into the car's wheels as it rolls down the hill.
There is a curve
and the car creaks, iiiiii
until, soon,
it resumes its straight line, and runs,
uuuuu . . .
tan, tan, tan, tan,
rapidly into the morning
The bell announces a stop:
tin,
The current is shut off,
ruun, ruuuu
The street car,
—the brake works for an instant—
Fooos, fooos, soon stops;
taff
And remains rooted like a Cyclops in the street, through which other cars cross, contentedly greeting the day and the sun that illuminates the triumphant morning, with their endless creaking of springs and their happy singing:
tan, tan, tan, tan,
tanan. . .
The car reaches its terminal at last, and the trolley is turned around:
chafs!

LOSES FORTUNE BY MARRYING WRITER

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Beatrice Rogers Benjamin Pratt, of New York and Newport, was married here to Preston Gibson, author and playwright, of Washington and New York.

The marriage was performed by Judge Stephen E. Radford, of the Probate Court, after the Rev. Minor Howard of the Diamond Hill M. E. Church had declined to marry the couple because they had no marriage license. The necessary license was obtained from the town clerk before Judge Radford was asked to officiate.

The marriage of Mrs. Pratt to Gibson, according to gossip, will mean a loss of at least $2,000,000, as her parents have announced their intention of disinheriting her in the event of such a marriage.

EXPLODING COAL INJURES WOMAN

A kitchen stove was completely wrecked and Mrs. Margaret Perelli escaped serious injury when some foreign matter in the coal she had just put on the fire in her home, No. 15 Chelsea street, East Boston, exploded. She was struck in the side by a piece of the metal, but did not require medical treatment.

Samples of the coal will be sent to Walter L. Wedger, expert in explosives, for examination.

FARMERS GET $20 A BARREL FOR CIDER

Charlton, Oct. 18.—Charlton farmers are getting something of a bonanza from the manufacture of cider this Fall. The cider makers have received $20 for a barrel of 50 gallons, and even the empty barrels are bringing as high as $4. They formerly sold for 75 cents.

INACTIVITY OF FLEET GERMANY'S FATAL ERROR, SAYS VON TIRPITZ

THINKS NAVY COULD HAVE HARASSED ENGLAND

VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS.

By ALFRED VON TIRPITZ,
Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

The German nation had no comprehension for the sea. In the hour of destiny it made no use of its fleet. It only remains to me to raise a monument to it. The rapid rise of the German nation to the position of a great power and her still more rapid decline, through the temporary pitifulness of her policy and lack of national pride, is an unparalleled tragedy.

If we consider the tragic fate of our fleet which is not to be separated from that of our people, we might form the opinion that any attempt of a European State to acquire an equal right to sea power side by side with England would be from the beginning doomed to failure. I believe that a detailed, unbiased history will not bear out this judgment.

Spain was in possession of the world of that time when England in the struggle against the Spanish silver fleet, in the days of "Westward Ho!" developed from an agricultural folk into a pirate state, and finally destroyed the great Armada.

Spain was able to conquer by her military force and for a time retain her oversea colonies but she lacked commercial activity, that second fundamental condition of lasting sea power.

Holland at one time had the best world trade and thereby roused the covetousness of England. She also possessed a god battle fleet which once, under de Ruyter, by directing its guns against London, obtained a just peace. But Holland was a small country and possessed no hinterland of her own.

Germany lay torn by the Thirty Years War whilst Louis XIV. committed the great historical blunder of attacking his natural ally, Holland, in the rear. But perhaps the Netherlands could have held out longer until the time when a new ally should arise for them in Germany, if only the Mynheers of Amsterdam had not thought too much of gain and clung too tightly to their money bags.

In spite of the urgent representations of their great admiral they suffered their fleet to go to ruin in time of peace and so brought about the decline of Holland.

FRENCH AIDED AMERICA.

The internal conditions in France caused her sea power to waver in the same manner, and the course outlined by Richelieu and Colbert was thereby interrupted repeatedly. In spite of that, French sea power before the outbreak of the revolution was equal to that of England.

It was principally by its help that Washington gained the freedom of America. In India, Guffren had held the balance of power against England and the Mediterranean was in the main French. The revolution destroyed the French officer's corps and allowed the ships and personnel to decline.

Later Napoleon found that even he with his energy and genius could not conjure up a fleet at a moment's notice, and so the numerically superior French-Spanish fleet was conquered by the better quality of Nelson and his band of brothers.

The naval prestige then established by England outlasted the nineteenth century.

At the turn of the century Germany possessed all the fundamental conditions of sea power—commerce and industry of world importance, whose gigantic growth was almost too rapid, military comprehension, talent for organization, diligence, state power and love of country.

The time was short to make up for what had been neglected, bue we were near our goal when a disastrous policy caused us to be confronted by the four strongest naval powers of Europe, of which England alone was doubly our superior.

NEVER FORESAW FULL VICTORY.

From the beginning, we could not reckon on a full victory, an overthrow of England, but I dare express the conviction that our sea power was sound and already strong enough to harass England to such a degree that we could have wrung from her the right to such conditions that we could recuperate our heavy losses.

To achieve this we should have comprehenued the nature of the war of annihilation which was being waged against Germany and in military matters, as well as political, acted accordingly, and above all ruthlessly staked our fleet at the right time under an individual command.

If we consider the rise of Prussian Germany with any sense of the actual, from the complete disorganization which followed the Thirty Years' War to the height of our prosperity in July, 1914, it appears almost a miracle that we succeeded as we did.

Situated in the middle of Europe, disadvantageously as regards the ocean, possessed of only moderate natural boundaries, surrounded by nations who today, as for centuries, have been lying in wait to attack us—that is Germany's position.

Perhaps these vital conditions, but perhaps to a similar degree the characteristics of our folk, are the reasons why Germany's development to prosperity and power never did proceed from the folk itself but are to be looked upon almost as a work of art, erected by a series of state constructors whom destiny gave to us in the last three centuries.

PRUSSIAN POLICY.

Can anyone believe that the "Ewige Reichstag," which outlawed Frederick the Great, or the Frankfort Parliament or any other plebiscite would have helped us forward? Prussian Germany was rather the work of single men who demanded and enforced fulfillment of duty and subordination to the interests of the State and who had the capability of keeping the aim in sight.

At the turn of this century we entered upon new conditions of life. Our nation, with flourishing industries, was forced to take part in international trade on a large scale, if it did not wish to be dwarfed.

States are upheld by the forces which created them. For Prussian Germany these forces were real power and devotion to the State as a whole, not the visionary project of a fraternizing of the nations which the Anglo-Saxons, in so masterly a manner, twice utilized successfully for the garrotting of the German folk.

It is my conviction that the mission of Germany for the good of Europe and the whole world was not yet fulfilled. We had nearly succeeded in pioneering Germany into the new age. An already considerable sea power gave us in a high degree the means of maintaining peace with honor, or, in case of necessity, of waging war with tolerable success. It was moreover a great necessary instruments for bringing our people in touch with the working and the spirit of the world. When our future powerlessness at sea will have rendered our decline still more acute and made reconstruction impossible, coming generations may call this fact to mind.

After peace and war, power and honor are lost, the victors stand on the ruins and write history. They deprive our poor and politically untalented folk of their very beliefs in themselves and of the logical consistency of their history. They revile the old State, its prosperity and its achievements and above all, its navy, which was after all our best political trump card. They take the greatest care to tear the threads which bind us to past development.

Our government stated no clear-cut aims nor held forth any encouraging ideals for the war. Nor did it open the eyes of the people to the terrors of defeat. The catchword "purely defensive war" was an illusion bound to lead to ruin because England had already, in the war, destroyed everything we had to defend except the chance to build anew.

How different was this course from that taken by Lloyd George and Clemenceau, who led their people to victory. By his weak course Bethmann-Hollweg destroyed the spirit of the people and prepared the way for the breakdown and for the demagogues who meanwhile had seized the reins and who threw themselves at the feet of the enemy with the cry:

"We who have always believed in the conscience of the world forswear the execrable politicians who wish to represent you as rapacious enemies. We never desired victory. We even feared it because it would leave the yoke of autocracy's military caste around the necks of the enslaved German people. Now defeat has freed the German people from the despotism of the Emperor and militarism. Now we shall force you, not by odious power but by grand and good words to love the German nation and further its interests. We mean to earn the confidence of foreign powers. We are freeing the path of Idealism from Imperialism, that is we are not sowing in German hearts hatred of British Imperialism which starved us out of France, Poland who tears us in pieces, but hatred of the men who once made the German Empire powerful, created army corps, built ships for our protection and created a stony barrier against rapacious neighbors.

Even in their day, the Romans were able to build up their empire by means of the inward discord among the Germans. The entente had the assistance of the envy of those who are always ready to destroy the true supporters of their economic existence.

OFFERS WEAKENED GERMANY.

Ever since 1917 the doves of peace flew continually over our frontiers bearing in their beaks as an olive branch the relinquishment of Belgium, and each of these offers strengthened the enemies in their determination to wait until their aim, the ruin of Germany, had been accomplished by the obvious inner decay.

(Editor's Note—Throughout his memoirs von Tirpitz seems incapable of grasping the fact that the allies demanded the relinquishment of Belgium not as a matter of barter for peace terms, but an absolute, unconditional withdrawal.)

To be sure the old State required certain necessary reforms, but it possessed full capacity for development for the new age and the requirements of our children and their descendents. But the revolution threw overboard everything which had made it great. It was the greatest crime committed against the future of our people.

Our breakdown is not due to our old State system as such, but rather to its inadequate personal representation. Our upper classes had in part sunk into weak decadence. Materialism had spread the influence of universal suffrage, and vote by ballot, which always tends to lay power in the hands of the demagogues, was not sufficiently equalized by a strong government or a steady upper class. Thus the men in the government, in the Bundesrat or Reichstag, who represented the State during the war were not equal to their tasks. If any one of the legislative factors had worked rightly, the disaster would never have occurred in this degree.

DICTATORS USED.

The enemy placed at their head dictators who, when necessary, enforced with iron means the determination to win and to annihilate their foes, by which the people as a whole were actuated. With us, the government in power allowed, open-eyed, the process of disintegration to go on in Germany's most dangerous hour, when all thoughts and all hearts should have been united against the outer foe. The worst instincts of our people were fostered by that disintegrating non-German spirit which has gradually gained the upper hand with our people and which weak German national feeling seems too indolent to oppose.

A feeling for the whole, for the state in general, has hitherto been insufficiently developed in our democracy. The new era began by depriving our folk of their honor, in addition to their other misfortunes and exposing them to the contempt of the world. In this manner only has it been possible for our enemies to destroy us so mercilessly, as now they are able to persuade the greater part of their populations, as well as the rest of the world, that we were criminals and deserved no better treatment.

It only remains today for loyal Germans to concentrate themselves on the single aim of checking the madness, material and moral, and of holding up further ruin.

To save as much as possible of that which is German is worthy of the most strenuous efforts of our noblest.

Giant Zeppelin to Cross Atlantic on Peace Mission

New York, Oct. 18.—A 600-foot Zeppelin, which was about to start across the Atlantic to drop three tons of bombs on New York when the signings of the armistice ended the war, will soon come to these shores on a peaceful mission under the command of American officers.

Emil U. Simon, a radio engineer, who arrived here on the Adriatic, brought the story of the German air monster. "This machine," he said, "is the largest of the kind ever built. It is the only one built for war purposes that was not destroyed by the Germans."

EPISCOPAL BAN ON REMARRIAGE DEFEATED

Deputies Engage in Lively Debate on New Prayer for Wilson

By REV. E. CLOWES CHORLEY,
Historiographer of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York.
(Written Especially for Universal Service.)

Detroit, Oct. 18.—The proposal to prohibit the remarriage of any divorced person in the Protestant Episcopal Church was defeated after a debate of several hours in the House of Deputies.

SUBMIT SUBSTITUTE.

The Commission on Holy Matrimony had recommended the adoption of a new canon to read as follows:

"No marriage shall be solemnized in this church between parties either of whom has a husband or wife still living who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

The majority of the committee on canons reported the change as inexpedient. The present law of the church permits the marriage of the innocent party in a divorce provided the bishop consents.

One year must elapse before remarriage and clergymen are not compelled to officiate at such marriages.

Judge Vernon Davis of the Supreme Court of New York argued the case for prohibition of remarriage and declared that perjury and subornation prevailed to an alarming degree in the courts.

PERJURY IN DIVORCE.

"There is more perjury, more subornation of perjury and more collusion in divorce cases than in any other class of cases," said Judge Davis.

Judge Joseph Packard of Baltimore opposed the repeal of the existing canon in the interests of morality, fairness and loyalty to the words of Christ. He said the repeal would impair the witness of the Episcopal Church against the crime of adultery.

Debate on a new prayer for the President of the United States was fast and furious in the house of deputies and was defeated by a noncurrence of the clerical and lay deputies.

SAYS LIBERTY OF IRISH RESTS ON LABOR PARTY

Colonel Lynch States One More General Strike Means Downfall of Government

New York, Oct. 18.—Ireland's hope for independence rests upon the establishment of a labor government in Great Britain, in the opinion of Colonel Arthur Lynch, M. P., who arrived here on the Adriatic to give a series of lectures in this country.

"British oppression," he said, "has had no effect on the Sinn Fein movement, which is continuing to gain strength."

Another general strike, he said, would be the death knell of the present government.

"I give Lloyd George two years at the most," said Colonel Lynch. "The British constitution is played out. The dominions will fall apart if an effort is made to keep them all together within the limits of the present played-out constitution.

"The final solution will be a republican form of government for England—that is, a federation. Men's minds will then be prepared to give Ireland an equal position in the federation, which will be bound together only for means of defence."

OPERA SINGER IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Carrie E. Furry of Commonwealth avenue, prima donna in "Rosemaid" several years ago and member of the Boston Opera Company, was granted a divorce by Judge King from her husband, Louis Furry.

Mrs. Carrie Donnell, mother of the singer, testified to having seen bruises and marks about her daughter's throat, which Mrs. Furry claimed were made by her husband. They were married on February 6, 1909.

Legion Would Make Nov. 11 National Holiday

By Universal Service.

New York, Oct. 18.—A movement has been started by the American Legion to have November 11, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice, declared a legal holiday in every State of the Union.

Chairman of State organizations are to bring the proposition to the attention of the Governors of their States, and a resolution has already been introduced in Congress by Representative Fordney of Michigan to have the day set apart as a national holiday.

The day is to be celebrated this year as "American Legion Day" by many of the 6,000 local posts of the legion, who will hold special meetings in memory of their fallen comrades. The first national convention of the legion also will be opened on that day in Minneapolis.

SMITH WOMEN DOUBLE FUND OBJECTIVE

Trustees, on Recommendation of Alumnae, Raise Goal to $4,000,000

Northampton, Oct. 18.—Acting upon a recommendation of delegates from all over the country attending an alumnae service school, the board of directors of the Alumnae Association of Smith College voted to raise a fund of $4,000,000 instead of $2,000,000 as at first suggested, to increase salaries of the teaching staff and provide necessary equipment.

The trustees of the college later voted to concur with the Alumnae Association and to serve as a whole as a campaign committee under the chairmanship of George B. McCallum, acting treasurer, to co-operate with the Alumnae Association.

At the meeting of the Alumnae Association directors, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, of Englewood, N. J., presided. Other directors present were: Mrs. Marguerite Page Hersey, of New York, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Rankin Wardner, of Boston, treasurer; Miss Alice D. Butterfield, Brattleboro, Vt.; Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence Clarke, of Williamstown, Mass.; Mrs. Bertha Robe Conklin, of Troy, N. Y.; Miss Ellen P. Cooke, of Northampton; Miss Muriel S. Haynes, of Augusta, Me.; Miss Florence Mackson, of Boston; Mrs. Anne McConway McEldowney, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Anne M. Hall, of Boston, and Miss Florence H. Snow, of Northampton, general secretary.

Pile Sufferers! Clever Ohio Chemist Says This Great Prescription Taken Internally Has Never Failed

Even chronic cases of 20 to 30 years' standing, with profuse bleeding, have been completely relieved in from three to ten days.

No discovery of recent years in the field of medicine has caused such a stir amongst the medical profession as the recent discovery that piles can be successfully treated and relieved at home by a wonderful prescription known to druggists as Miro Pile Remedy.

It has been proved that so-called external remedies applied or inserted into the rectum cannot cure piles and at the best only give temporary relief. This is also true of surgical operations which simply remove them after formation, but in no wise act on the source of the trouble.

This prescription, although taken internally, is not digested in the stomach, but is rapidly passed on unchanged to the intestines, in a short time reaching the exact place where by its soothing healing action, it first allays all inflammation and then by direct contact with all ulcers and piles, causes them to heal and disappear forever.

It's positively marvelous how speedily it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two or three days at most, even in cases with profuse bleeding that have resisted all known treatments and operation, really wonderful results have been accomplished.

The author of this amazing discovery desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Miro Pile Remedy decisively conquers even in the worst cases and he has instructed the W. B. Hunt Co. in Cambridge and Roxbury Crossing, and druggists all over the country, to guarantee it in every case of blind, bleeding or protruding piles.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared, as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

Export Advertising

FOR over four years trade has largely been restricted because the energies of the world have been devoted to war. Now all is different, and the next year or two will determine if American Manufacturers can, under peace conditions, retain both the domestic and foreign business they have enjoyed and secure a permanent footing for their products in the markets of the world. That American Manufacturers must hold their present markets and find new ones for their goods is essential, as otherwise factories must close, dividends be cut and general confusion and loss result. Members of the New England Council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies for many years have been studying foreign fields and acquiring information regarding making for, shipping to and selling American goods in every civilized country.

These Advertising Agencies keep on file current issues of most of the more prominent domestic and foreign publications which are utilized by American Manufacturers who have built up a satisfactory foreign business, and have practically all the data needed by anyone who is considering entering this field.

They are exclusive American Agents for leading trade papers published in foreign countries and have very intimate relations with those American Export papers whose age and standing in foreign countries make them of real value to American concerns which would like to establish foreign connections or increase the volume of their orders from foreign factors or retailers.

They are also prepared to write, illustrate, translate and print in proper form catalogues, booklets, circulars, letters, etc., intended to inform foreign buyers regarding United States products, secure exclusive representatives for, lists of foreign factors, retailers or buyers in any of the principal foreign countries.

Their many exporting clients have found that their experience is of service in assisting them to avoid costly errors in expenditure and to secure for them adequate returns for the time and money they are investing in foreign countries.

The members of the New England Council would be glad to confer with any concerns interested in extending their business in foreign countries, as now seems to be the opportune time for United States manufacturers and merchants to secure a very profitable and permanent foothold in these wide-open markets.

We are very proud of the record we have made in co-operating with so many of New England's leading business men and are always willing to confer with others to determine if it would pay them to make an investment in advertising.

THE STAGE

NEW SHOWS AT TWO HOUSES NEXT WEEK

Two important openings at local theatres next week, and a Shakespeare revival flourishing like a green bay tree, make Boston look once more like the busy and serious-minded dramatic centre that she was before the war.

The new productions are "Fair Helen," a modernized and English version of Offenbach's "La Belle Helene," which comes to the Majestic Theatre, with Marcia Van Dresser as the prima donna; and "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans," by Lawrence Eyre, starring Mrs. Fiske at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Factors in the revival of Shakespeare plays are the Craig Players, who will enter upon their second week of repertoire with "Othello" on Monday evening; Sothern and Marlowe, who are in the offing, with sails set for the Boston Opera House November 3, and the series of excellent "Hamlet" matinees recently given by Walter Hampden.

Offenbach's opera bouffe will be one of the most interesting productions offered here in a long time. The music is unchanged, but the text has been remodeled to suit the times, and the settings, by Joseph Urban, are sure to be of marked distinction. The production will have a new libretto, writen by Austin Strong, author of "Three Wise Fools," and lyrics have been written by Charles Hanson Towne, poet and magazine editor. Miss Van Dresser, who will sing the leading role, entered upon her vocal career under the encouragement of Milka Ternina, famous Wagnerian soprano, and one of the greatest "Isoldes" in the history of music drama. Miss Van Dresser appeared first with the Bostonians, and later went abroad to Italy, where she remained until the outbreak of the war.

Richard Ordynski, head director of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will come to Boston to superintend the premiere. "Fair Helen" is announced as a "musical fantasy."

Mrs. Fiske at Hollis

Mrs. Fiske will appear in the character of Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans, a southern beauty with a high spirit and a romantic past. The play gives the actress a wide scope for the display of her peculiar talents. She is seen as a wilful and flirtatious belle of the eighties, who runs away to Paris when a girlhood romance is shattered, refusing to humble her pride with an explanation that would have set everything right; and later as the woman of mature and irresistible charm, who returns twenty years later to find that her niece and the son of the man who was once her fiance are threatened with the same catastrophe that she once faced. An audacious plot to entangle the affairs of the young lovers, and a determination to humble the man who made her suffer twenty years before, form the framework of the play.

A sleepy old Southern garden, a Mardi Gras festival and a "ghost party" afford opportunity for picturesque settings. With Mrs. Fiske will appear Hamilton Revelle, former leading man for Mrs. Leslie Carter and Olga Nethersole, who appeared in "The Rose of the Rancho" and other popular plays. The rest of the cast includes Georges Renavent, a young French actor, appearing on the English speaking stage for the first time; Joseph Green, Dorothy Day, Gertrude Chase, Eva Benton, Ezra Walck and Clarissa Stem.

Lean Mayor of Sunapee

Cecil Lean, Mayor of Sunapee, N. H. That is his proper title. He doesn't go bragging about it, or calling the Common Council when the streets are impassable. The only way to discover that he is Mayor of the town is to ask him to show his fireman's badge.

He treasures it especially since a little incident happened in Detroit. Late for the matinee, he was "hitting it up a bit" in his car, when a police officer stopped him and ordered him to court. Suddenly the officer colored, and stammered apologetically:

"Oh, excuse me, Mr. Mayor. I didn't recognize you."

As Lean drove on he discovered that the wind had blown his coat open, revealing the precious badge. What the officer didn't know was this: that the town of Sunapee consists of a general store and post-office, a blacksmith shop and an icehouse; that Billy B. Van is chief of police; Edgar Smith, justice of the peace, and Edward J. Connolly, chief of the fire department. Cecil Lean liked the place so well, and particularly the "city officials," that he bought a beautiful home on the lake.

Then it was the town discovered that it had been getting along, somehow, without a mayor, and Cecil was promptly elected to the office. He invited the entire population of Sunapee to come and see him in "Look Who's Here," now playing at the Colonial Theatre.

Twain's Tribute to Hodge

One of William Hodge's most ardent admirers was Mark Twain, who first saw Hodge when he appeared in New York with the late James A. Herne, in "Sag Harbor." Later, after Mr. Hodge had reached the dignity of a star, Mark Twain saw him play "The Man From Home," and in a letter to Thomas Bailey Aldrich, paid this tribute to the actor: "Take a good look at him. To me he is the most delightful impersonator of American rural characters of our time. He is much more than an eccentric comedian. In all that he does he is governed by a sense of artistic propriety. No comedian since Jefferson and John T. Raymond can make you laugh more heartily and leave you afterward with your self-respect undiminished. He does not [illegible] the modesty of nature."

[illegible] and Mark Twain grew to be fast friends, and Twain was a frequent visitor at the actor's dressing room. One night a fashionable clergyman was announced in whose pulpit Mr. Hodge had recently preached an informal sermon. The pastor was inclined to seek publicity by acquiring celebrities for this purpose. He at once sought to enlist the services of Mark Twain. The humorist listened. Finally he said: "The next time I go to any church I'll come to yours, but I don't go very often."

"When did you last attend?" asked the hopeful divine.

"Eleven years ago," said Mark Twain.

Smith Congratulates Florence Moore.

Edward D. Smith, general manager for the Shuberts, has written the following letter to Florence Moore, now playing in "Breakfast in Bed" at the Plymouth Theatre:

"I wish to congratulate you, and the members of the cast, for breaking every record on the books of the Plymouth Theatre. The box office receipts for the Monday afternoon and night performances just passed will doubtless remain unchallenged for a long time to come. This tribute to your popularity and the appeal of your play is doubly significant in that it comes at the beginning of your ninth week in Boston, and it must be extremely gratifying to you and your fellow-players to know that the extension of your engagement in this city has met with such substantial approval."

Career of Adelaide and Hughes

Adelaide and Hughes, who are appearing at the Boston Opera House in "Monte Cristo, Jr.," have contracted to appear with their own company in South America after the run of "Monte Cristo, Jr.," on tour. They will organize a company of one hundred, and will be seen at Buenos Aires, Montevidio, Tucuman, Colonia, San Paulo and Rosario.

Adelaide hails from Cohoes, New York. She was taught dancing by Van Armun of Troy, N. Y. In the same class with her were Mary and Florence Nash, who began on the stage as dancers, but took to the drama later. Adelaide has given the Gerry Society a great deal of trouble. When she first appeared at the Casino she was a mere child, and yet she used to claim she was a mature woman and had a husband. The Gerry Society was unable to prove the contrary, for the records of all births and deaths at Cohoes had been destroyed by fire. Try as hard as it could, the society was unable to interfere with Adelaide. She remained at the Casino continuously, without taking her trunk out of the building, for five years.

Her dancing partner and husband is John Hughes.

He was once a messenger boy in Brooklyn and liked the job because it gave him an opportunity of dancing along the street.

"Monte Cristo, Jr.," is a typical Winter Garden show. The cast includes Ralph Herz, Chic Sale, William and Gordon Dooley, Watson Sisters, J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales, Esther Walker, Jack Squires, Katherine Wylie and others.

Is Known as "Merry Widow."

Frances Cameron, prima donna with Lew Fields in "A Lonely Romeo" at the Shubert Theatre, will probably go through life known as "The Merry Widow;" just as Jefferson was known as Rip, and Stuart Robson as Bertie, the Lamb. She can't get away from it, no matter how she tries, and sometimes it irks her, she says. She played the part for three years.

"Some people seem to think that was the first thing I ever did on the stage," said Miss Cameron in her dressing room at the Shubert, "but that is not the case by a good deal.

"When I was very young—really only thirteen, to be exact, but don't tell the Children's Society—I was in the chorus of a traveling, one-night stand company presenting "The Liberty Belles"—the company, by the way, that gave such players as Elsie Ferguson, Ruth St. Denis, and Barrie's protege, Pauline Chase, their start.

"To give you an idea of the calibre of the attraction, let it be said that I was the prima donna of the organization, and received the magnificent salary of $25 a week! The role I played was that of a Cuban girl, and the press notices always stated that I was a native Cuban, so lots of people think I am to this day. As a matter of fact, I am of Hungarian parentage, and love goulash as your American girl loves broiled lobster."

KEITH'S THEATRE

At Keith's next week Kitty Doner—the young woman who "can wear men's clothes as men would like to wear 'em"—is the headliner. She was last seen here in the Winter Garden show with Al Jolson. In her act she is assisted by her sister Rose, Bobby Dale and three Arabs—for one of the scenes is on the edge of the Arabian Desert and is full of color, life, music, song, dancing and tumbling Arabs. The whole thing is a medley of music, rich settings and costumes.

James C. Morton will present a comedy travesty, discarding "chalk face" and appearing as his natural self. He will be assisted by three other Mortons—Mamie, Edna and Alfred—members of his family. William Sully will be seen with Genevieve Houghton in a musical sketch called "Between Dances," by Aaron Hoffman. Asahi and his company of Japanese will give an exhibition of magic full of Oriental mystery. Other acts are: Elida Morris, with some comedy in miniature set to music; Larry Reilly and company, in a musical Irish playlet, "Here's to Erin"; Kellam and O'Dare, in a singing, talking and dancing act entitled "Chasing the Blues"; Marconi and Fitzgibbons, with accordeon, xylophone and piano; Billie Potter and Effie Hartwell, in "Muddled Mixtures."

TREMONT THEATRE

At the Tremont Theatre George M. Cohan's character comedy, "A Prince There Was," with Grant Mitchell, will enter upon its last week here on Monday evening. The story, a fairy tale of modern American life, is a succession of laugh-compelling incidents, bright dialogue and surprises, with also a strong human appeal. The company includes George Parsons, Gilda Leary, Jessie Ralph, A. G. Andrews, Grace Nolan, Gladys Towles, Ernest Stallard, Wanda Carlysle, Ralph Theadore, Ralph Slipperly, Elizabeth Dunne and Walter Browne.

ARLINGTON THEATRE

The repertory for the second week of Shakspearian productions by the Craig Players at the Arlington Theatre will include a revival of "Othello," staged with the same care for scenic beauty and historic detail that have marked all the Craig productions of Shakspearian plays. John Craig will appear as Othello; William Norton as Iago; and Mary Young as Desdemona. Performances will also be given of "Romeo and Juliet," and "Hamlet."

WILBUR THEATRE

William Hodge on Monday night begins the second week of his engagement at the Wilbur Theatre, in his new play, "The Guest of Honor."

PARK SQUARE THEATRE

"Buddies," at the Park Square Theatre, will remain one more week, the engagement having been extended owing to the popularity of this war play with incidental music. It was originally scheduled to close in Boston tonight. From here the production will move direct to the Selwyn Theatre in New York.

Owing to this change in schedule, the opening performance of "The Challenge" has been delayed one week. "The Challenge" will open on Monday evening, October 27, at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre. This stirring play by Eugene Walter has for its theme the present social unrest.

WALDRON'S CASINO

Ben Welch in his "Revue" comes to Waldron's Casino, beginning with a matinee on Monday. The cast, besides Mr. Welch, includes Pat Kearney, Frank P. Murphy, Harry Morrissey, Vic Casmore, Dimple Dolly Morrissey, Frankie Martin, Nettie Hyde, Freda Florence, and the famous Welch Dancing Girls. A musical farce entitled, "Love Arbor," is the opening of the show, which concludes with a breezy burlesque called "Izzi at the Movies," and "Izzi at the Cabaret." The usual entertainment will be given Sunday night.

HOWARD ATHENAEUM

Pretty girls and comedians will grace the stage at the Howard Athenaeum, beginning Monday, in the "Pace Makers" burlesque company, headed by Harry Seymour and Florence Tanner. Other favorites include Rose Allen, Dot Davidson, Sid Winter, Joe Wilson, Bernie Branigan, Walter Van and a chorus of twenty. The vaudeville bill includes Ryan and Healey, songsters; Weston and Elaine, character artists; Two Ledelias, and Earle Williams in the film feature, "The Usurper."

GAYETY THEATRE

Lew Kelley will be seen all next week at the Gayety Theatre in a new production entitled "The Submarine Man," by A. Douglass Leavitt. Mr. Kelly is again seen in his character of "the dope," which he has made a stage classic. Among the cast are: Charles Raymond, Arthur Putnam, Ed C. Jordan, black-face man; Dudley Farnsworth, juvenile; Jeanette Buckley, Helen Lloyd, Annette Shaw and Harry Rose, singing and dancing leader. There is a charming chorus, and the costumes and scenery are of unusual brilliance.

PLAYS THAT HOLD OVER

TREMONT—"A Prince There Was," with Grant Mitchell, last week here.

WILBUR—William Hodge in his own comedy, "The Guest of Honor."

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—"Monte Cristo, Jr.," brilliant Winter Garden Show.

PARK SQUARE—"Buddies," war play, last week here.

COLONIAL—"Look Who's Here," musical show, with Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield, last week here.

SHUBERT—Lew Fields in musical farce, "A Lonely Romeo."

PLYMOUTH—Florence Moore and Leon Gordon in "Breakfast in Bed."

WINTER GARDEN CONCERT

Headliners from "Monte Cristo, Jr.," and other talent will appear in the second Winter Garden Concert, to be given at the Boston Opera House tomorrow evening. The bill includes Ralph Herz, Esther Walker, Clark and Verdi, George Baldwin, Jack Squires and Broadway Butterfly Girls, Al Shayne, Quixy Four, Spencer and Williams, Ethel Gray, Ash and Hymes, Three Keltons and Mart Fuller Golden.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM

The Temple Stock Company at the Malden Auditorium will revive for the coming week Eugene Walter's brilliant play, "Just a Woman." This play, which achieved a long run in the metropolis, is one of the most engrossing works of this playwright. The play will be staged as nearly as possible like the original production. The leading feminine role will be enacted by Adeline Bushnell, and that of the hero by Dwight Meads. The usual daily matinees will be given at popular prices.

O'SULLIVAN CONCERT

John O'Sullivan, the Irish tenor, will give his first Boston concert under the auspices of the Legion of Allied Veterans at Symphony Hall at 3 p. m. tomorrow. He will be assisted by the 101st Regiment Veteran Band, under the direction of Bandmaster L. J. Massey. Mr. O'Sullivan will sing the narrative from "Lohengrin;" "Longing, Dear, for You," J. H. Densmore; "Draw the Sword, Scotland," Ramsay; "When Shall I Again See Ireland," Herbert; "Lo Roi D'Ys," Lalo; Cavatina from "Romeo and Juliet," Gounod, and these Irish songs: "The Harp of Tara," Moore; "Cruiskeen Lawn," Lover; "Mo Chraobhin Cno," Celtic air.

LEO DITRICHSTEIN COMING

Leo Ditrichstein, in "The Marquis de Priola," a play by Henri Lavedan, will come to the Tremont Theatre on Monday, October 27. The play is said to be a daring exposition of social conditions in Europe, and had a marked success when produced in Paris, and last Winter in New York. The original New York cast will appear here.

THEATRE PARISIEN

Recent successes of the Parisian stage will be produced here by the Theatre Parisien, which is to give three performances in Jordan Hall on October 31 and November 1. The movement is an outgrowth of the Vieux Colombier of New York, an "uplist" organization which gave elaborate productions, but failed to appeal to the public taste. As a result, Richard Herndon, general manager of the Vieux Colombier, was sent to Paris to engage a first-class company of players who could produce good, modern comedies, farce and operettas as brilliantly as they are done in Paris. The first performances in the United States will be given at Jordan Hall on Friday, Octoger 31. "La Guele du Loop," "Main Gauche" and "Chonchette" have been chosen for the Boston performances.

COL. LYNCH'S LECTURE

"Colonel Arthur Lynch, journalist, author, soldier and member of Parliament, was found guilty of treason today and sentenced to death." Thus read a dispatch sent to this country January 23, 1903. But as Colonel Lynch is announced to lecture at Tremont Temple next Tuesday evening, it may be judged that the execution did not take place. And the man to whom the main credit is due for saving Colonel Lynch's life was another colonel, an American, named Theodore Roosevelt, then President of this country, who had formed a strong attachment for the Irish soldier when he had fled to this country for refuge.

The crime for which Colonel Lynch was tried and sentenced was that of high treason in that, as was alleged, he, a British subject, had taken up arms against that country and fought at the head of an Irish regiment throughout the Boer war. In the late world war Colonel Lynch led another regiment of Irish soldiers and fought for liberty on the side of England and the Allies. He will make the subject of his forthcoming lecture, "The Irish Question."

ORPHEUM THEATRE

At Loew's Orpheum Theatre for the coming week the vaudeville for the first three days will be topped by William Stanton, late star of the New York Winter Garden, in his latest comedy, "His Last Drop." Mr. Stanton will be assisted by Rosalind May and Company. Marie Russell, the "Belle of Kentucky," will give "A Study in Brown." Other offerings on the program are: Russell and Titus, in their skit, "At the Drug Store;" William Smythe and Gladys, in songs and sayings of the people; Pless and Rector, in athletic acts, and Gladys Brockwell, in the film "Chasing Rainbows." The program will also include a comedy, as well as Pictorial News. A complete change of photoplays and vaudeville will be given on Thursday. The usual Sunday night concert will be given.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—Suthern and Marlowe in Shakespearian repertoire, opening November 3.

TREMONT THEATRE—Leo Ditrichstein in "The Marquis de Priola," by Henri Lavedan, opening October 27.

ARLINGTON—Boston English Opera Company, with "Faust," opening November 10.

COLONIAL—"Scandals of 1919," with Ann Pennington, opening October 27.

PARK SQUARE—"The Challenge," by Eugene Walter, with Holbrook Blinn, opens October 27.

BOSTON THEATRE

At the Boston Theatre next week will be see in photoplay form, E. Phillips Oppenheim's modern romance, "The Long Arm of Mannister," with Henry B. Walthall in the title role. The play ranges from fashionable high life to a desert elopement, through criminal financial operations and intrigue. There will be a Mack Sennet comedy film. In the vaudeville will be seen Evans and Wilson in a love-sick skit, "Will You Marry Me?" Brown, Gardner and Barnett in a passing revue of songs and dances; the Sterling Saxaphone Four; the Worden Brothers, jugglers, and a Scottish comedy romance.

WALDORF THEATRE

Richy W. Craig and the Sunshine Girls, in a musical melange, entitled "Choo-Choo, All Aboard," will be the feature at the Waldorf Theatre beginning Monday. There are nearly a score of musical numbers, staged under the direction of Dorothy Blodgett, including several startling ensemble specialties. Two performances of "Choo-Choo" will be given daily. A program of motion pictures will complete the bill.

PARK THEATRE

One of the most interesting persons connected with "Checkers," the special production of the famous racing melodrama, which is to be seen for the second week at the Park Theatre on Monday, is Tammany Young. He plays the part of "Push" Miller, constant companion of Checkers, the happy-go-lucky lover of horse racing.

Though still in his early twenties, Tammany Young probably knows more about horse racing than any other screen actor. He was once a New York newsboy of Herald square. His personality attracted the attention of such racing men as John W. Gates, "Pittsburgh Phil," "Father Bill," Daly, Riley Grannon and Davey Johnson, and, to paraphrase Kipling, he "learned about racing from them." When Tammany grew older he became a motion picture actor.

NEW PICKFORD FILM

Mary Pickford shooting craps! Even her most Bolshevistic admirer would never have dreamed it. But that's what "Our Mary," of the soulful eyes, childlike smile and girlish form, does. Not as a regular occupation, to be sure, or even for pleasure, but as part of her role in "The Hoodlum," which begins its Boston engagement at Tremont Temple a week from tomorrow, following the ending of the engagement of "Daddy-Long-Legs."

During her eventful and successful career Miss Pickford has played many roles. "The Hoodlum" practically exhibits her in all the roles she has ever played, with several new ones thrown in. It is the second picture from her own studio, and probably the most novel film in which she has ever appeared.

FENWAY THEATRE

"Why Smith Left Home," a Paramount picture with Bryant Washburn and Corrina Griffith in "The Climbers" are the two leading features for the first three days of next week. "The Climbers" is a Clyde Fitch play, closely following the original.

From Thursday to Saturday inclusive a new program will be offered, the main attractions being the Paramount-Artcraft special, "The Grim Game," and Vivian Martin in "His Official Fiancee." Burton Holmes Travels, new reels and comedy will also be seen and Robert L. Carlson has been re-engaged as soloist.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Feature films that will attract all movie fans have been secured by the management of Loew's Columbia Theatre for the coming week. Mabel Normand, in "Upstairs," and William Desmond, in "Dangerous Waters," will appear Monday afternoon and evening. Peggy Hyland, in "Merry Go Round," and Hale Hamilton, in "His Brother's Place," will be shown Tuesday. For Wednesday and Thursday, Elaine Hammerstein in her recent success, "The Country Cousin," and Dorothy Phillips, in "The Heart of Humanity," will be seen. Other bills are; Friday, Madeline Travers, in "The Splendid Friend," and Evelyn Greeley, in "The Oakdale Affair;" Saturday, George Walsh, in "The Winning Stroke," and Bessie Barriscale, in "Kitty Kelly, M. D." Sunday, the usual evening concert.

GLOBE THEATRE

Gladys Brockwell and Madelaine Traverse will head the bill for the first three days of the coming week at Loew's Globe Theatre. The former will appear in the first Boston presentation of "Chasing Rainbows," and Miss Traverse will be shown in "The Snares of Paris." The program for the closing portion of the week will be headed by the first Boston showings of "The Thunderbolt," in which Katherine MacDonald and William Meighan have the leading roles. The companion photoplay will show Creighton Hale, in "The Black Circle." The usual Sunday night concert includes photoplays and vaudeville.

EASTERN S. S. SERVICE

Not even the unstable weather appears to have a bad effect upon the Eastern Steamship lines. Every arm of the service is doing a greater amount of traffic, both passenger and freight, at this season than ever before. This is especially true of the Metropolitan line between New York and Boston, whose steamships have ized. These late October days, with beautiful moonlight nights, invite a pleasure trip by water. The leaving time on this line is 5 p. m. from India wharf every day (Sundays included), and simultaneously from Pier 18, at the foot of Murray street, New York, to Boston. There is no change in the schedule on any arm of the Eastern Steamship service.

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND

Nazimova, in "The Brat," will be the star attraction at the Upham's Corner Strand next week. On the same bill is Arthur Stringer's mystery story, now filmed for the first time, "The House of Intrigue." Selections by Harry Rodgers on the Strand organ, a new comedy and the Strand News Weekly, complete the program. Heading the bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is "Hearts of Men," starring George Beban, followed by Marion Davies, in "Getting Mary Married."

GORDON'S OLYMPIA

Viola Dana will be seen in "Please Get Married" this week at Gordon's Olympia. Other features on Gordon's Olympia bill include "The Hall Room Boys," a comedy, the Outing Chester Travels and the Olympia News Weekly. The vaudeville headliners include Margon De Vore and Sally Taylor in a concert revue; Nip and O'Brien in bits of acrobatic nonsense; Maggie LeClaire and company in "The Unfair Sex"; Bevan and Flint in "A Slight Interruption," and the Herbert Trio of comedy gymnasts.

BEACON AND MODERN THEATRES

SHOW EACH WEEK (FIRST RUN EXCLUSIVE) PARAMOUNT ARTCRAFT PICTURES

How you can tell a Paramount Artcraft Motion Picture

Know before you pay—four ways how

We show Paramount Artcraft Pictures Exclusively

1—in the lobby

The lobby of a theatre is usually covered with announcements of treats in store for you.

Many theatres, especially those who make a change of programme once weekly, announce Paramount Artcraft Pictures exclusively.

The days when Paramount Artcraft pictures are shown are the days to choose first. Those are the pictures you can rely on.

This is one of the ways to know before you pay—the lobby way.

2—on the billboards

On the billboards in the neighborhood of a theatre you will find a perfect maze of paper. This maze means something if you know what to look for.

The thing to look for, right under the title of pictures advertised, is the eternal sign of foremost entertainment, Paramount Artcraft.

If those two words are there you are all set for those shows—you can't go wrong.

This is another way to know before you pay—the billboard way.

WHATEVER is really first-rate in pictures comes to you under that name Paramount Artcraft.

Follow that name and you will never take a chance with your evening's entertainment.

You want to know what sort of pictures you are going to see before you go to the theatre—you want foresight, not hindsight.

It is the best theatres in every locality that show Paramount Artcraft, and it is the best theatres that advertise them as such with the name Paramount Artcraft right under the title of the picture.

3—in theatres' newspaper advertising

But after all the main outlet for all picture theatre advertising is the newspaper.

If you don't see the announcements in lobby, on billboards or in programmes, you are still very likely to see them in the newspapers—either in big display space or in the Classified Amusement Directory.

This is where the shrewd exhibitor makes the biggest noise about his show and this is where he would not dream of leaving out the name Paramount Artcraft whenever he is entitled to put it in.

Paramount Artcraft stands like a wonderful lighthouse amid all the ceaseless changes of the world of motion pictures.

The radiance pours steadily out and guides you to many a perfect programme.

4—in theatre programmes

Nearly every regular theatre sends out in advance each week a programme, booklet or leaflet, telling of coming attractions.

Unlike the lobby and the billboard, this comes right to your home where you have plenty of leisure to study it.

But the secret of success for your entertainment hours is just the same—for you will find that the manager has listed Paramount Artcraft Pictures as such.

He knows why, so do you. This is another way to know before you pay, the theatre programme way.

The Play With a Grippingly Human Appeal

"JUST A WOMAN"
By Eugene Walter

Note: Here is a production that is replete with tense action, heart-throbbing situations and brisk dialogue, showing this prolific playwright at his best.

A PLAY THAT TOUCHES THE HEARTSTRINGS OF EVERY HUMAN BEING.

AUTO PARKING SPACE

HOWARD Aviators Burlesque, all high flyers and beauty chorus. Always something doing 1 till 11.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

THEATRES

SYMPHONY HALL CONCERTS

Fritz Kreisler returns to the concert stage with a violin recital in Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon. Assisted by Carl Lamson, acompanist, he will play this program:

Sonata, G minor, Tartini; Concerto, C major, A. Vivaldi; Concerto, A-minor, G. B. Viotti; Rondo, G major, Mozart; Ballet Music from "Rosamunde," Schubert; Hymn to the Sun, from "Coq d'Or," Rimsky-Korsakoff; La Gitana, Kreisler; Tambourin Chinois, Kreisler.

On the followng Sunday, October 26, Serge Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist and composer, will appear, playing works by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Alkan, Lizst, Gounod and himself.

Geraldine Farrar will be the soloist on November 2, assisted by Arthur Hackett, tenor, and Rosita Renard, pianist.

The Sistine Chapel Soloists from the Vatican, heard here last month, will return for a final concert at Symphony Hall next Thursday evening. Gabrielli, the male soprano; Gentli, male contralto; Cocchin, tenor, and Des Santos, bass, will give a program of sacred and secular music.

Toscha Seidel, volinist, heard in Boston last season for the first time, comes to Symphony Hall agan Saturday afternoon, November 1. He will play Hondel's Sonata in E major, Saint-Saens' Concerto No. 3, short works by Auer, Kresler, Sarasate, Achron and Wieniawsky.

MODERN AND BEACON

What is undoubtedly the best bill of the season will be shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres next week when an all-star cast in "Teeth of the Tiger" and Dorothy Gish in "Turning the Tables" will be the attractions. As an added feature, Charlie Chaplin in a re-issue of "The Floor Walker" will be shown.

"The Teeth of the Tiger" is a story of Arsene Lupin, the French crook character made famous by Maurice Le Blanc. Readers of the Le Blanc stories will recall that the last adventures of this celebrated criminal left him apparently dead. According to this story, Lupin escaped and is living in America as a respectable country gentleman. He is summoned by Henry Forbes, an aged invalid, who has been threatened by anonymous letters. The old man is killed, and it becomes the task of Lupin to trace the murderer. A well developed love story is worked into the plot.

Dorothy Gish in "Turning the Tables" has a part suited to her talents as a fun-maker.

SCOLLAY SQ. OLYMPIA

Pauline Frederick, in her latest dramatic photoplay, "Bonds of Love," shown for the coming week at the Scollay Square Olympia, discloses her ability to handle a boat with all the assurance of a race driver. The star, in her leisure momonts, has become an expert driver of speed bots; and her hobby has been incorporated into one of the most thrilling scenes ever flashed on the screen. Other pictures include "The Hall Room Boys," a comedy, the Newman Travelogue and the Olympia News Weekly. The program of vaudeville has El Cleve, in a bit of Scotch; Foley and La Tore in musical comedy; Arthur McWaters and Grace Tyson in their 1919 Revue, "Eyes of Vaudeville"; Mills and Lockwood, the two Hickville Rubes and McNally, Dinus and De Wolfe in "Making Good."

SHAKESPEARE REVIVAL

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will return to the Boston stage, with a two weeks' repertoire of Shakespeare plays at the Boston Opera House, beginning November 3. They will open with "The Taming of the Shrew," and will give also "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night." A feature of the revival will be a departure from the old-time scenery, now regarded as too ponderous and realistic. The production will be set in an entirely new manner.

LANCASTER THEATRE

Elsie Ferguson in "The Witness for the Defence," founded on the novel and stage play of the same name, will be seen at the Lancaster Theatre the first three days of next week. With this picture will be featured also "The Misleading Widow," with Billie Burke. For the last half of the week, Louise Glaum in "Sahara" and Enid Bennett in "Stepping Out" will be shown. The usual concert will be given tomorrow evening.

TREMONT TEMPLE

Mary Pickford begins her nineteenth and last week in "Daddy-Long-Legs" at Tremont Temple next Monday night, and, in spite of the record-breaking run, is still drawing large audiences to that house. This is Boston's last chance to see "Our Mary" in her greatest success. The play is a delightful story, full of humor and pathos, and shows the little actress in her most happy vein.

"THE MIRACLE MAN"

George Loane Tucker's Paramount-Artcraft special, "The Miracle Man," returns to the Park Theatre for a special two weeks' engagement, starting Monday, October 27.

"Hearts of the World," David Wark Griffith's revision of his photoplay masterpiece, will be shown at the new Park Theatre tomorrow night for one performance only.

BOWDOIN SQ. THEATRE

Tom Mix will be seen at the Bowdoin Square Theatre beginning Monday, in the western "thriller," "Rough Riding Romance," which deals with the career of a cow-puncher and a princess. Another picture will be that showing Alice Joyce in "The Winchester Woman." Five vaudeville acts and other moving picture features will be on the bill.

NEW ATTRACTIONS AT HOME TOWN THEATRES

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE, EAST BOSTON—offers for the week an all-star bill of variety, pictures and the latest comedies.

GORMAN'S THEATRE, ROSLINDALE—Will feature the entire week an exceptionally good bill of the most popular stars in the movies.

HYDE PARK THEATRE, HYDE PARK—The best ventilated and coolest theatre in Hyde Park offers its patrons the best and finest screen productions and the latest feature vaudeville acts.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE—Will feature the first half of the coming week an exceptionally good bill of pictures and four all-star vaudeville acts.

SHAWMUT THEATRE, ROXBURY—Offers the first half of the week the great human drama of today, "The Heart of Humanity," starring Dorothy Phillips, direct from its long run in New York City.

BROADWAY THEATRE, EVERETT—Presents all of next week an exceptionally good bill of all-star features, latest comedy, news and other new attractions.

WOMEN TO HEAR CARDINAL O'CONNELL

Cardinal O'Connell will be a guest and will address the members of the League of Catholic Women of the Archdiocese of Boston this afternoon at Notre Dame Academy, Fenway, at the first meeting of the season.

Mgr. Splaine, spiritual director of the league, and Mrs. Frances E. Slattery, president of the league, will also address the meeting. A special feature will be selections by John O'Sullivan, tenor, member of the Chicago and Paris Grand Opera Companies.

SPALDING PLAYS AT SECOND SYMPHONY

Violinist Warmly Greeted in Connection with Monteux's Excellent Program

Albert Spalding, violinist, lately in the aviation service in Italy, was the soloist at the second Symphony Concert, Mr. Monteux conducting. He played Dvorak's concerto for violin and orchestra in A minor, in three movements.

The rest of the program consisted of Schumann's symphony in B-flat major, No. 1, and an orchestral suite by Georges Enesco.

Mr. Spalding, with a war record that appealed to the public imagination and a reputation already established here as a violinist of the first rank, was warmly greeted. He gave a musicianly performance of the concerto, and was recalled again and again at its close. The performance of the orchestra was brilliant, sympathetically led by Mr. Monteux with due regard for the degree to which the tone of a solo violin blends with the ensemble.

Schumann's symphony, familiar as it is here, made a profound impression. The work is as suggestive to-[illegible] fever as when first performed in manuscript nearly eighty years ago. In marked contrast was the modern suite of Enesco, the Roumanian violinist, a brilliant work, without marked characteristics of any one school, but positive in character, and performed with fine spirit and distinction.

The program for the concerts next week will be: Short symphony based on the war in France, by d'Indy, the first performance in America; Beethoven's ballet, "The Creatures of Prometheus," Wagner's "Siegfried Idyl," and Liszt's symphonic poem, "Les Preludes."

Skipper Loses Ship in First Absence in 14 Years

New Bedford, Oct. 18.—Captain Manuel A. Santos has returned to this city with the first details of the loss of the three-masted schooner, Republic, of which he had been master for fourteen years.

Captain Santos was not aboard the vessel when she was wrecked. He was ill in a hospital in Rio Janeiro. It was the first time he had ever left the ship during a cruise.

The Republic was lost with a cargo of coal while in a heavy sea about five miles north of Rio Grande Bar, some 200 miles south of Rio Janeiro. She hailed from Thomaston, Me.

NIGHT SERVICES AT TRINITY RESUMED

William L. Garrison, Jr., to Speak on Social Pressure Tomorrow Evening

The popular and widely known evening services at Trinity Church, Newton Centre, of which the Rev. Edward T. Sullivan is rector, will be resumed tomorrow.

"The Social Pressure Today: [illegible] We Believe It?" is the subject of the address by William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., at 7:15 at the first of these evening services.

Miss Ruth Stickney, violinist of the American String Quartet; Miss Lucile Quimby, 'cellist; Arthur M. Phelps, organist, will give Gounod's "Ave Maria," Handel's "Largo," Kreisler's "Old Refrain," and Goltermann's "Cantilene." The service will be preceded by the singing of familiar hymns led by organ, violin, 'cello and vested choir.

Mr. Garrison, grandson of the great abolitionist, is a well-known banker and a student of economic and industrial problems.

At the morning services at 10:45, the rector will preach. Many who have not heard Mr. Sullivan in his own church will know him from attending the evening services at the Cathedral during the summer.

Professor Lionel S. Marks of Harvard will address the Men's Club Monday evening in the parish house of the church on "Some Airplane Projects for the 1919 Campaign"—that which the signing of the armistice prevented being carried out.

Recently an anonymous donor gave funds for enlarging the beautiful church by addition of a south transept.

Notes Around the Store

Ten weeks to Christmas.

It's not too early to begin to shop early.

People living out of town especially appreciate the convenience of a charge account. Why not open one here?

Mothers are once again urged to bring the little tots for hair cutting early in the week when possible. Later it is more crowded.

If you pass the Washington street windows Monday don't fail to note the splendid display of Suits. The suit problem is a difficult one, and needs just such careful studying as this kind of display makes possible.

Dress materials, that is "yard goods," are in great demand. Favorite weaves often sell out in two or three days after they are first shown. When you see a fabric you like, it is well to decide promptly.

Every day nearly we receive shipments of fascinating French Veilings which our buyer selected last summer in Paris and Lyons. You have to see them to appreciate their becomingness.

The rage for fancy Hand Bags continues unabated. In our Ribbon section there are all sorts of novelty pieces for Bags, as well as a variety of frames.

Stair Carpets and Hall Runners

Our stock of Stair Carpets and Hall Runners is most complete, being carefully selected by men familiar with the carpet needs of our customers. Made in Oriental Rug effects, they carry out the rug idea where the standardized sizes of rugs do not meet your requirements.

Drapery and Upholsteries In Rare Colorings and Unusual Design

Distinctive decoration in the home is evident wherever well chosen drapery is correctly used. The new ideas in Winter furnishings give the home decorator a wide choice of designs, fabrics and colorings.

Large patterns are especially favored for hangings, because they will match the upholstery of Davenports and great chairs. Many of the tapestry fabrics are in rich, somber shades with gold traceries, and others are vividly colored in striking patterns.

In silken fabrics there are exquisite pastel shades in plain and figured materials—for morning rooms, boudoirs, breakfast rooms, and wherever a sunny, cheerful atmosphere of delicate beauty is desired.

AMERICAN SPORT SECTION

NEAR TITLE CONTESTS TODAY

Several Games Should Have Big Bearing on Final Awarding of Eastern Championship

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

In several spots a championship tinge colors today's schedule of college football contests.

To be sure the Harvard game with the sadly crippled and already defeated Brown eleven, does not fall in the champion section of the list, unless, through some wild, weird miracle, the Providence crew completely wrecks the good ship Dope and climbs over Harvard into the class of real contenders.

Nor does the skirmish at New Haven between the Elis and Boston College merit title-altering consideration, although there, also, a wide stretching of one's imagination might develop a vague hint of a remote chance for an upset to the Blue.

But, in today's Dartmouth clash with Penn State at the Hanover sesqui-centennial celebration; Cornell's meeting with Colgate at Ithaca, and Pittsburgh's advance on Buck O'Neil's Orange army at Syracuse, three of these six powerful candidates for the Eastern football title probably will wrap up their hopes and pack them away for another season.

GREEN SHOULD WIN.

Before the war, Dartmouth, with a much less sturdy collection of players than those of its present team, took the measure of the aggregation from State College, Penn. The margin of the victory was not great, but there was sufficient evidence in the size of the score and in the playing of the game to prove Dartmouth's 1916 team to be the quality outfit.

This year, with "Colossal Cuddy" Murphy showing the way to 1919 tackles; "Jolting Jimmy" Robertson smashing opposing lines with gay and wanton abandon; "Canny Jack" Cannell directing the play, not to speak of "Bust-'em-up Bill" Cunningham at the pivot post, and a few other rattling good players sprinkled through the Green's scrapping order—all gaining psychological support from that 1916 Dartmouth victory—there seems every reason to believe the team from Hanover will successfully weather its initial rough cruise on the 1919 football sea.

COLGATE FAVORITE.

Several elements enter into the favoring of Colgate over Cornell, one being the enviable record Laurie Bankhart, the Colgate coach, has made since he began handling the team.

Glen Warner's Pittsburgh Panthers seem marked for a great season. Long habit, if nothing else, would find them ruling the favorite over Syracuse or almost any other college eleven. Not a few believed a break would come this year as Warner, at the start of the season, lacked a single veteran lineman. But Warner found there were a number of husky youths in the public and private prep schools of Pittsburgh and vicinity. A number of these matriculated at Pitt, and now six or seven of the best ones lead the attack when the Panther team goes over the top. That is, they lead it until Pittsburgh's wonderful backfield trio—Hastings, DeHart and Morrow—gets under way. After that, as the poet says, "It ain't necessary."

LINE ON THE ELIS.

Yale's game today is interesting chiefly because it may serve as a basis for comparing the work of the Elis with that of Harvard. Boston College, Yale's opponent, gave Harvard the stiff opposition and went to New Haven determined to make a still better showing against the Blue.

At the Stadium, Harvard meets, for the first time this season, some semblance of a real attack, and the Crimson defensive system may be called upon to exert itself.

Tufts, playing Norwich in Tufts' only home game of the season, should have an opportunity to regain some of the confidence lost when Springfield scored its 7 to 6 victory. Pennsylvania may find the going a bit stiff against Swarthmore, but the strong Quaker outfit should win.

SUTHERLAND TO COACH SWIMMERS AT YALE

Alexander Sutherland, Brookline athlete, who has been coaching the Andover swimming team through several successful seasons, has been appointed to train the Yale varsity swimmers for their tank sessions this season.

However, Sutherland will not give up his coaching position at Andover but will alternate between there and New Haven. At present the Brookline boy is training the Andover football men. He will proceed to Yale in a couple of weeks.

COLUMBIA MAY SHAKE UP PURPLE

New York, Oct. 18.—Three football games of more than ordinary interest were on the schedule today for the metropolitan district of New York. Columbia battled the strong eleven from Williams on South Field, while New York University played Wesleyan. Stevens had the Connecticut Aggies for visitors in Hoboken.

The Columbia-Williams game attracted most attention, and it promises to reward the crowd with a thrilling spectacle. The Columbia team, under Coaches Tom Thorp and Fred Dawson, has made great strides during the week, and those on the inside look for the Blue and White to surprise the football world in the Williams game.

Few have gone so far as to predict a victory for the Blue and White, but at the same time, Columbia men cite the fact that the defence of the Williams team was the principal thing it showed in its game against Cornell. Although the Purple held Cornell 0 to 3, the Williamstown players themselves made little progress against Cornell's own protection.

Columbia expects much of its defence, since Williams plays used by the scrubs and the freshmen have failed to make an impression against the Blue and White defence. Morningside Heights is elated at the rejuvenation of the Columbia line under the coaching of Tom Thorp.

Dawson has not neglected his attack during the week. He has given the team some plays in secret practice that he thinks will net gains against the Purple. It is thought that Charlie Shaw will do most of the kicking today, with Canapary, captain, ready to rush to his aid. This pair may surprise Williams with a few field goals, should the occasion arise.

HARVARD FRESHMEN BATTLE GROTON TEAM

Harvard 1923 met Groton School on the latter's gridiron this afternoon. Both teams are light and fast and play about the same style of game. It is the second appearance of the freshman team, the other one being a 27 to 10 victory over Worcester Academy.

METHUEN ELEVEN IS EASY FOR WAKEFIELD

Wakefield defeated Methuen 33 to 0 at Wakefield, Cummings playing a whirlwind game, scoring four touchdowns and adding three points on goals after scores.

CRACK ELEVENS FITTED FOR BIG CLASH

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Prospects were bright for a dry field for the big Pittsburgh-Syracuse game in the Stadium this afternoon. A warm sun dried up the field this morning, and the Syracuse players went through a short signal drill. Advance indications were that 18,000 persons will see these two husky elevens battle.

There is no difference to speak of in the average of the teams, the Orange averaging 176 and the Panthers 175 pounds. Syracuse had a little advantage and weight in the line, averaging 182 pounds to 180 by Pitt. Pittsburgh with its fast quartet, composed of Hastings, Dehart, Morrow and Davies, was slightly heavier than the Orange backfield, the Panthers averaging 166 pounds to 164 for the Orange.

Every player on the Syracuse squad was fit to put up a hard fight, while the same may be said of Glenn Warner's Pittsburgh team, which arrived here at 8 o'clock last night and went to quarters in the Onondaga Hotel. Coach Warner is confident that his team will win, while Coach "Buck" O'Neill looks for the Orange to put up a great fight.

All the students on the hill paraded throughout the downtown streets after attending a mass meeting at which the coaches and Captain Alexander spoke.

FORMER NAVY STAR COACHES AT NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Oct. 18.—Lieutenant von Heimburg, captain of the 1917 football team at the Naval Academy and mentioned as a candidate for a position on the All-American team, has been ordered to this city to take charge of the training station football for the remainder of the season. He began his work as coach early this week, replacing others who had volunteered, and is now whipping his men into condition for a start against the Colonials at Freebody Park Sunday.

YALE PREPARED AGAINST B. C.'S OPEN GAME

Eleventh Hour Shift in Lineup Made to Baffle Coach Cavanaugh's Men

New Haven, Oct. 18.—Yale went into the game with Boston College fully expecting one of the hardest early season tussles in several years. The big Boston team came here with a reputation of being able to show a versatile, puzzling, open attack and it was this attack that the reorganized Yale eleven faced. There were several shifts in the Yale lineup at the eleventh hour and a new face was seen in the backfield—that is a new face at the start of a game.

Kempton, who starred at Exeter a few years ago, took "Don" Welles place at left halfback, but the Yale team didn't suffer any because of that replacement, as Kempton was a whirlwind on his feet.

MATCHED IN SIZE.

Coach Cavanaugh's men matched up well in size with the Elis, the Boston line being fully as heavy as the set of New Haven forwards. As for the backs, they looked just as good as Sharpe's men. B. C.'s forward pass attack is something Yale has feared for a week and ever since Monday, the Elis have been practising a defense for it.

With Kempton and French in the backfield, Yale was expected also to pull some brilliant forward passing, as both halfbacks excel in tossing the ball to a waiting end or back. Altogether the game today is expected to produce some brilliant open field work.

FRENCH STRONG ON DEFENCE.

French has developed into a strongman against the forward pass and he is the man Boston College must ward off when executing the aerial tosses.

The Yale line was shifted some in anticipation of the Boston attack, Allen and Reinhardt changing ends, while Acosta was at right guard and Galt at left. This shift was made in the last practice.

WILLIAMS OUT OF CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

Williamstown, Oct. 18.—Contrary to the announcement made a week ago, the Williams cross country team will not compete in the national event this Fall. Such a course had been planned but it developed that entries of new members are not acted upon until the annual meeting in February. Williams will undoubtedly join at that time and compete in the annual track meet in the Spring. In the meantime, the cross country runners will go to Syracuse October 25 to compete in the open hill and dale event in the city. The Purple harriers will find worthy opponents in Harvard, Dartmouth, Cornell and Columbia, according to present indications.

LEWIS WINS IN HARVARD CROSS-COUNTRY TRIALS

Time trials to determine the seven men who will wear the Harvard colors in the intercollegiate cross-country run in Syracuse a week from today were held over the Belmont course, Captain Burnham Lewis finishing first. The next nine men were Bemis, Ames, Wason, Nally, Douglass, Dexter, Harris, Goodwin and Boyden. The final trial will be held Monday afternoon. The runners were clocked, but their time was not made public.

HARVARD YEARLINGS TO RUN MEDFORD TEAM

The Harvard freshman cross country team was to meet the Medford High today over the Charlesbank course of four miles. Among the Harvard harriers will be Captain Winchester, former Andover half-miler, Bill Bennett, Paul Brown, Sterling Tait, Tom Whitman, Clarence Shearn and Warren Smith, all ex-Exonians, and Herbie Pratt and Lew Zeraga of St. Paul's.

PLAY FOR HARVARD TENNIS TITLE MONDAY

Bob Lipman, former captain of the University of California's tennis team, will meet Leon de Turenne, another Californian, on Monday afternoon for the singles championship of Harvard. Lipman disposed of Egbert, formerly captain of the Michigan team, and de Turenne defeated Fenno, one time runner up for the State junior singles title.

TUFTS ELEVEN TO PLAY IN DETROIT NOVEMBER 8

The big game of the season for University of Detroit is its match with Tufts on November 8. The mid-western college is already directing its development toward the meeting with Whalen's outfit, and it will be a big day at the Detroit ball park when the elevens clash.

Yelle Kayos O'Neil

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 18.—Frankie O'Neil of Philadelphia substituted for Billy Woods of this city and was knocked out in the fourth round by Freddie Yelle of Taunton before the Atlas A. A. O'Neil was on the floor during most of the third round.

BIG GOLF FEATURES IN MONDAY'S AMERICAN

The Boston American will have two great golf features Monday. There will be an expert article by Walter Hagen, national open champion. The Hagen stories will hereafter appear in the American each Monday instead of on Saturdays.

Robert E. Harlow, the celebrated golf writer, will have his first article in Monday's editions. Mr. Harlow's articles will be a feature of the American's sporting pages.

There will also be news of interest from the various golf clubs of New England.

Officials — Referee, Langford of Trinity; umpire, McGrath of Boston College; field judge, Sullivan of Dean Academy; head linesman, Cannell of Tufts. Game starts at 3 o'clock.

Harvard's rush line changes receive a thorough test in today's game with Brown. Players appearing for the first time in the varsity lineup had hard work on their hands to keep the burly Bruins from threatening the Crimson's goal line.

Tom Woods and Jack Steele at right guard and right end, respectively, were the Harvard newcomers. Keith Kane was back for the first time since the Boston College game, and was a great help to the right side of the line. Captain Murray, who had also been out of play for two weeks, was at quarterback.

All eyes were on Casey, the artful dodger and fast stepping star of the Harvard team, and his backfield mates were Dick Humphrey, also a slippery runner, and Ralph Horween, who did the punting.

An eleventh-hour shift at Brown resulted in the swinging of Shurtleff from tackle to guard, and the promotion of Sinclair from the scrubs. Hoving, centre; Samson, quarterback, and Jemail, fullback, a trinity of Providence stars, were injured in the game with Colgate Saturday and were out of the game. Brace replaced Hoving and Coulter went in at quarterback. Jemail's successor was Armstrong.

CORNELL AND COLGATE GO TO IT AT ITHACA

Ithaca, Oct. 18.—With the crack Colgate team presenting its greatest strength and with a stubborn, determined Cornell team awaiting the onslaught with set teeth, the stage was set for what promised to be the biggest early season game in Cornell football history.

Cornell got a bit of pre-game bad luck when it became apparent that Davies, star halfback, would probably be unable to play at all. A two weeks old injury got worse and it is doubtful if he will be able to start. That means that either Mackenzie or Hasbrouck will be sent in.

Another unexpected change is at right end, where Cunneen started instead of Wilson, who is not in good condition. The rest of the lineup was the same as in the Williams game.

Tufts' rejuvenated eleven was scheduled to meet Norwich on Tufts Oval today. The Medford college team, though minus several stars, was confident of victory.

Heinie Spear, member of last year's S. A. T. C. eleven, started in Captain Cahoon's place at left end for the Brown and Blue. Ray Trowbridge cared for the other wing position.

MELROSE HIGH BEATS WATERTOWN, 3 TO 0

Melrose High showed unexpected power in its game with Watertown at Pine Banks Park, Melrose, and overcame the champions, 3 to 0, when Miles Lane lifted a goal from the field in the last minute of play. Watertown High entered a protest because the crowd was interfering with the progress of the game by swarming on the field.

Harvard Seconds Win from Brown Seconds by Point Margin

Harvard second team defeated Brown seconds on Soldiers Field by the score of 14 to 13. The victors rolled up two touchdowns in the first half chiefly through errors. Lockwood blocked and recovered a punt, falling on the ball behind Brown's goal. Higgins, another Harvard man, ran thirty yards after scooping up a Brown fumble and in four rushes Captain Wales went overboard for a second touchdown. Wales also kicked both goals.

After a triple pass, Captain Pieri of Brown scored a touchdown from Harvard's five-yard mark. In the second half Curley Oden broke away off tackle for seventy yards and another score. Failure to kick goal after this startling run caused Brown's defeat.

B. U. ELEVEN IN FIRST CLASH OF YEAR

Injuries Prevent Campbell and Bon from Taking Part in Game with R. I. State

Boston University's football eleven met Rhode Island State College today on Fenway Park in its first gridiron battle of the season. Although Coach MacDonald has been training the B. U. players less than a month, they have developed into a fast team.

Bon and Campbell were out of today's game because of injuries received in practice. Dobrien expected to get into the game. He suffered a cut over his right eye. Goodrich, who made a good impression in practice, was on hand to relieve Dobrien. Goodrich is a former Colby player.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 18.—Dartmouth was given its first real test of the season when the Green clashed with Penn State today. Coach Spears sent Moore in at left guard in place of Crisp, to give the Dartmouth line a stiffer defence against Penn State's plunging style of attack.

The final practice for both teams was limited to signal drill and kicking, with Robertson doing the punting for Dartmouth and Hess for Penn State. Both men also practiced drop kicks and placements for field goals.

GOV. SPROUL WILL SEE SWARTHMORE CONTEST.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The University of Pennsylvania football candidates went through a long and spirited signal rehearsal as final preparations for the Swarthmore College game here today.

The team as it lined up today was: H. Miller and R. Miller, ends; Titzel and Little, tackles; Neylon and Dieter, guards; Lud Wray, centre; Captain Bert Bell, quarterback; Light and Derr, halves, and Brunner, fullback.

Governor Sproul, who is a graduate of Swarthmore, where his son was a member of the football, baseball and basketball teams, attended.

Extra seats were put up today to hold a crowd numbering nearly 20,000 persons.

SCHOOL TEAMS IN BIG GAMES TODAY

[illegible] two dozen high school football games were to be played today in the vicinity of Boston. There were two Suburban League games, two games between Boston and Suburban League teams, four college freshman teams against Prep schools, three North Shore League games and the schedule was completed with games between high schools and private schools.

Of the two Suburban League games the one between Brookline and Cambridge Latin at the Field, Brookline, was expected to be the more interesting.

These teams are about evenly matched while the game between Malden and Rindge was sure to be a one sided affair with Malden piling up a big score as they did in their last league game.

Boston [illegible] and Medford game was one of the attractions of the afternoon. Boston Latin is greatly improved with the return of [illegible] Herb Fitts to the back field. Fitts in practice this week has been tearing through the line showing all his old time pep and there was little doubt but what he would be in condition to get into the game today.

BIG INTEREST IN GAME.

The game between [illegible] and Boston College High [illegible] aroused interest. Somerville with [illegible] heavy line and [illegible] backfield was a favorite but they knew they would have to extend themselves more than they have so far this season or the dope will be upset. The return of Lanagan to the backfield strengthens [illegible] and rounds out the backfield with Wilson, Casey and Farrell into one that was expected to cause the Red and Blue team a lot of trouble.

[illegible] at centre in the place of Captain [illegible] who was injured in the last game.

Everett and Newton have easy games. The former plays Waltham High and Newton meets Weymouth on the home grounds at Newton. In the holiday game Newton sustained quite a few injuries so it was practically a second-string team that was selected to take the field in the game today. Coach Keaney planned to send his first team into the game but plans to use his subs before the game also.

NORTH SHORE GAMES.

The North Shore League goes into action with three games on the schedule. Peabody plays Winthrop, Lynn English will meet Marblehead and Gloucester plays Winthrop. Lynn Classical and Revere, the other two teams in the league have no games on their schedule.

Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and New Hampshire State freshman teams are scheduled to play at Exeter, Groton, Worcester Academy and Andover, respectively. The other games on the program are Dorchester at Allen School, Dean Academy at Cushing, Noble-Greenough at St. Mark's, Brown-Nichols at St. George's, Huntington School at Middlesex, Dummer at Pinkerton, Lowell at Manchester, Clinton at St. John's High, Fitchburg at Haverhill and Abington at Whitman.

TALK about the League of Nations made Woody sick. The indications are that Woody will soon be healthy enough to get sick again. He has given considerable thought to the rent problem, which will probably annoy him again after March 4, 1921. Woody has been in the White House so long that Bill Bryan turns the color of Christmas jewelry every time he thinks about it

THERE ain't anything in the Constitution to prevent Woody from grabbing a third term. The only thing against it is that Washington refused a third term. But the Papa of His Country wasn't annoyed by the thought of landlords in those days. The landlords hadn't started to come over from Europe yet.

THE Constitution chirps that no President shall be elected to Washington for more than eight years. This gives Woodrow seven years eleven months and a fraction yet to serve, although Congress is willing to give him a commutation for good behavior

AS every President is entitled to the White House for eight years, Woodrow has still got the seven years and eleven months coming to him

U. S. S. UTAH ELEVEN PLAYS NAVY TODAY

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 18.—The Navy second team and the U. S. S. Utah eleven met today.

There were several prominent former college players on the Utah's squad. Coombs, who played quarterback at Annapolis last year, is the field general, and Cawley, the Lowell boy who displayed prowess at Colby College, is one of the halfbacks. The playing of Costo, an Indian forty years of age, who was prominent at Carlisle Indian School in 1901 and '02 and weighs 215 pounds, and Warner, another husky weighing more than 320 pounds, will be watched with interest.

CONFIDENCE IS ESSENTIAL FOR GOOD GOLFER

In order to do anything well one has to have confidence. This sure holds good in golf. The first thing one notices when talking with a star golfer is the great confidence he has in himself. It is this more than any other feature that makes him a star.

On the other hand you will notice that the duffer lacks confidence and [illegible] holds his bag and keeps his score at a standstill.

A golfer must always have confidence in his clubs as [illegible] to do his things. Some players will carry a club in their bag [illegible] now and then to disadvantage because the club does not feel right. The best thing to do in a case like this is to get rid of the club, as the player will never do himself justice with it.

[illegible] players spend very little time addressing the ball as they are not nervous regarding the outcome. [illegible] though, will spend lots of time especially on the tee. They will shift feet and waggle clubs till one gets nervous watching. I have seen a duffer waggle his club, step and [illegible] with the waggle again with the final result that he hit his ball [illegible]

The confident player sends his [illegible] with lots of pep and dash to his [illegible]. It is the uncertain players who spend little time on shots which [illegible] lack of confidence. If a player lacks confidence in himself [illegible] most cases [illegible]

[illegible]

Francis Ouimet never lacked confidence and it is a pleasure to see him make a shot and the watch the confident walk he has after the ball. [illegible] road to success. A second [illegible]

This Day in Our History—October 18, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the capture of the anti-slavery agitator John Brown in 1859 with his men, by Robert E. Lee, leading 1,500 troops. Twelve of Brown's followers were killed. Brown was executed for treason on December 2, 1859. Brown's raid served to crystallize opinion for and against slavery.

A Famous Library

THE Vatican library is the most sumptuously housed of all libraries, and contains some of the rarest manuscripts in existence. The printed books include over 2,500 books issued in the fifteenth century, many of them vellum copies. The library is said to contain over 220,000 volumes and 30,000 manuscripts.

The Wicked Marquis

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreéable English Aristocrat of the Old School

What Has Happened

The Marquis of Mandeleys [illegible] English nobleman [illegible] days gone by, finds [illegible] bankrupt from [illegible] against Richard Vont [illegible] of a cottage on his estate who refuses to vacate [illegible]. The Marquis [illegible] him that the [illegible] thousand pounds [illegible] settle the court [illegible] would be useless [illegible] another appeal, even to the House of Lords. A young [illegible] Marquis [illegible] and he [illegible] young [illegible] to the M[illegible] lates [illegible] daughter [illegible] After [illegible] Hanraway [illegible] allow [illegible] been [illegible] row [illegible] Thain [illegible] after which the Marquis [illegible] he would [illegible] million dollars with [illegible] self and with no [illegible]. Thain suggests [illegible] her publisher, James [illegible] she cannot marry him.

THE marquis [illegible] in his favorite [illegible]

"It is quite [illegible] "that I have been unable for the last ten years to ex[illegible] that position in the country to which I am entitled. I must [illegible] that the small [illegible] which have formed a necessary and [illegible] ing part of my daily life have become almost unendurable. You received my check, I hope?"

She nodded and laid it upon the table.

"It was dear of you, Reginald," she said, "but do you know it is astonishing how well I seem to be able to get on with [illegible] three payments [illegible] a great deal of money, of [illegible] you know, and I do want you to let me try and be independent."

His gray eyes were fixed almost coldly upon her.

"Independent? Why?"

"Oh, don't be foolish, [illegible] please," she begged. "For [illegible] teen years, I think it is now, you have allowed me six hundred a year. Do you realize what a great deal of money that is? Now that I am beginning to earn some money for myself, it is absurd for me to go on taking it."

Up to Him

"Do I understand it to be your desire, then, Marcia," he asked, "to effect any change in our relations?"

She came over and sat on the arm of his chair.

"Not unless you wish it, dear."

[illegible]

Well, why not, if you really feel it to be your duty," he con[illegible] [illegible] when he disowned you."

Uncomfortable Feeling

"In that case," Marcia acknowl[illegible] shall not trouble [illegible] when I [illegible] at any rate to make him see [illegible]

Marcia nodded.

"The boy left England too young," she remarked. "[illegible] his country. I suppose he has settled down in America forever."

[illegible] with him," the Marquis [illegible]. Yes, go down and see [illegible] rather like to hear [illegible] is obdurate [illegible] all his efforts [illegible] of his [illegible] it would be interesting to hear."

"Should you mind," she asked, "if I motored down there with my publisher, Mr. James Borden? You have heard me speak of him."

"Not in the least," was the ready reply. [illegible] tions [illegible]

"None," Marcia admitted. "He would come simply for the sake of a day or two's holiday, and to take me."

"He is one of your admirers, perhaps?"

"He has always been very kind to me."

The Marquis was momentarily pensive.

"Your are a better judge than I, Marcia," he observed, "[illegible] such an expedition as you suggest [illegible] usual. I know [illegible] have changed very [illegible] days when [illegible] possible and interesting, but have they really progressed so far as this?"

Marcia considered the matter [illegible]

[illegible] should say that our proposed expedition was unusual. On the other hand, Mr. Borden has no near relatives, and I myself enjoy a certain amount of liberty."

The Marquis smiled at her.

Much Liberty

"As much liberty as you choose. If I hesitated then for a moment, it was for your own sake. I do not think that I have ever sought to curtail your pleasures, or to interfere in your mode of living."

"You have been wonderful," she [illegible] for that very reason [illegible] I have never realized, but always considered [illegible] Do you know that you are [illegible] the years I have [illegible]

"[illegible] never have asked you," he said, "but I am not in the least [illegible]" he went on drawing her towards [illegible] embrace, "you have perhaps thought [illegible] a little cell [illegible] stand [illegible] from you even in [illegible] moments. I was brought [illegible] remember, in the [illegible] exhibition of [illegible] a degen[illegible] one. Yet, Marcia," he added, drawing her [illegible] and clasping her hand, "[illegible] have been my refuge in all these years. It is here with you that I have spent my happiest hours. [illegible] have been my [illegible] weary disap[illegible] pointment [illegible] than the [illegible]

"I should [illegible] in any other [illegible] assured him, patting his hand. "In all these years I have felt my mind grow. I have read—heavens, how I have read! I have felt so many of the old things fall away. I felt my feet growing stronger. You have given me just what I wanted, Reginald. To quote one of your own maxims, we have only one life, but it is for us to subdivide. We take up a handful of [illegible] emotion [illegible] and we live them out and when the flame is burnt we are restless for a little time, and then we begin it all over again. That is how we learn, learn to be wise by suffering and change."

Detested Change.

"I am afraid," the Marquis sighed, "that I do not live up to my own principles. All my life I have detested change. There could be no other home for me but Mandeleys, no other clubs save those where I spend my spare time, no other pursuits save those which I have cultivated from my youth, no other dear friend, Marcia, to whom one may turn in one's more human moments, than you."

Marcia shrugged her shoulders.

"It is queer," she admitted, "to hear such professions of fidelity from you."

"Had I a different reputation?" he asked. "Well, you see how I have outlived it."

Marcia's silence, natural enough at the time, puzzled him a little afterwards, puzzled him as he leaned back in his car, on his way homewards, puzzled him through the evening in the few minutes of [illegible] which he was able to [illegible] a large dinner party.

"[illegible]," he muttered to himself. "I wonder what sort of a man he is."

[illegible] where he lingered [illegible] before retiring [illegible] he took down a volume of "Who's Who." Borden's name, [illegible] was there. [illegible] was of [illegible] at Oxford, but [illegible] and at letters [illegible]

Roslindale Woman Recommends This Prescription

Mrs. Albert J. Patch, of Roslindale, Mass., writes: "Before taking your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) I was troubled with what I thought stomach trouble. I had that terrible gnawing in my stomach nearly all the time. Within half an hour after eating a hearty meal I would have that same disagreeable feeling. I was losing in weight every day. After taking your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) I was relieved of that terrible gnawing in my stomach, expelled worms, and I felt like a new person in many ways, and would heartily recommend it to anyone suffering as I did."

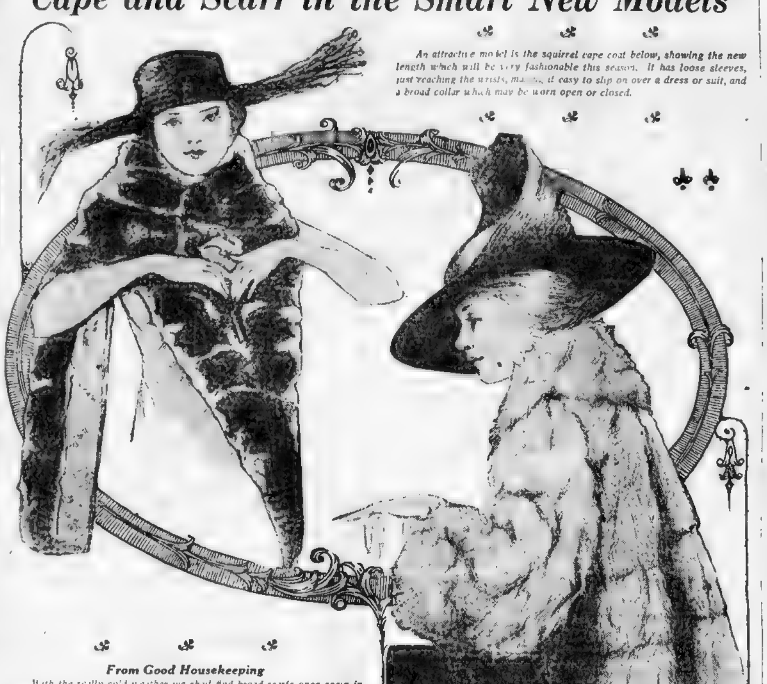
Cape and Scarf in the Smart New Models



An attractive model is the squirrel cape coat below, showing the new length which will be very fashionable this season. It has loose sleeves, just reaching the wrists, making it easy to slip on over a dress or suit, and a broad collar which may be worn open or closed.

From Good Housekeeping

With the really cold weather we shall find broad scarfs once again in vogue. Here above is a beautiful piece of moleskin which may be twisted about the neck and figure as fancy dictates. One of the prettiest ways is to tuck one end over the left shoulder, the other falling in front.

A Daily Recipe

Poulette Sauce

Pour a pint of veloute sauce into a saucepan. Let it boil, and thicken it with four raw egg yolks diluted with a little cream. Add at the same moment two ounces of butter, the juice of a lemon and some chopped parsley.

A High Point of View

"Yes," said an old African explorer, "I once found myself in danger from a lion at a time when I had no weapons with which to protect myself. So I tried the very experiment which you have just suggested of sitting down and staring at him."

"[illegible]" exclaimed the [illegible]. "That is interesting. And did the experiment work?"

"Perfectly—perfectly! Why, the lion didn't even come near me!"

The scientist rose to his feet in a state of great excitement and was beginning to speak about the confirmation of his theories, when the explorer interrupted.

"You see," he remarked, [illegible] at his cigar, "I [illegible] to [illegible] a high branch of a very tall tree."

Household Suggestions

If new potatoes are put in water with a little common soda two hours before they are wanted they will then scrape quite easily.

To serve up cauliflower whole and unbroken, boil in a cloth, as it may then be lifted out of the saucepan without any detriment to its appearance.

Match boxes easily get mislaid, but if a piece of tape or ribbon is tied around the box it can then be hung near the gas bracket and a match is then close at hand.

Curtains will hang straight and look much nicer if a small lead weight is sewn in each end of the lower hem. In thin curtains the weight will prevent them from blowing about, and they will hang, as they should, following the line of woodwork.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

IN spite of Desire's outburst, Mrs. Duffield felt quite complacent after her niece's departure.

Not only had she offered to set matters right with Helen, but she had a self-congratulatory sensation when she appreciated that she had not let slip to Desiree the fact that Smith was going under an assumed name.

Really, the widow reflected, comfortably settling down in her armchair, Smith could not be quite trustworthy if he were ashamed to use his own name. After all, perhaps it was just as well that Jefferson was going to make inquiries as to his identity. She did hope that she would be informed of the outcome of his investigations.

Meanwhile Desiree Leighton walked slowly home, her mind occupied with something her aunt had said. It was Mrs. Duffield's reminder that, "after all, Smith was just a chauffeur."

The girl had been so penitent for her outburst of anger to her elderly relative that she held in check the protest she longed to utter. Yet, if she had spoken, she could not have denied the matron's assertion, Smith was "just a chauffeur."

Desiree's sense of justice rebelled at the suggestion of snobbishness in that statement. A chauffeur could be an educated gentleman just as well as his employer could. Something told her that David Smith's character, ideals, principles, were as high as—if not higher than—those of any man she knew. She compared him mentally with Walter Jefferson, and her lip curled scornfully.

"He is not to be mentioned in the same class with that busybody!" she muttered.

But when she analyzed her feelings she had to admit that it was Smith himself—not his breeding, manners or looks—that held her loyalty. Here she stopped, afraid to let herself think further. She reflected with a thrill of anticipation that tomorrow she would see the object of her recent discussion with Mrs. Duffield.

It was after dinner that her father disabused her of this belief.

He had been unusually taciturn during the evening meal—a fact that his daughter observed without comment. Something had doubtless gone wrong at the office. Tactfully she tried to draw his thoughts from his worries, chatting of anything except his business and the topic that was uppermost in her mind. An instinct to conceal her own feelings prompted her to avoid this.

Therefore she experienced a sudden shock when her father introduced the subject she wished to shun.

Coffee had been brought into the drawing-room after dinner. She was sipping the steaming beverage when her parent announced abruptly—"Smith has left."

Then she looked up and met her companion's eyes, her own unflinching.

"That is a hard word to use, father," she commented. "I hardly think that in this case it is warranted."

Samuel Leighton frowned.

"Sentimentalism again, my dear! I suppose I may judge of what is the correct word. I mean what I say. Smith told me he would stay with me for the remainder of the week. Then—probably because he resented our—my—suspicions of him—he went back on his word."

"What reason did he give?" The question was very low.

"That he had been called away, the same reason he gave the last time he threatened to go. His pride is hurt—that's all. I don't believe he had to leave town at all."

"I do."

"What?"

"I do," the girl repeated bravely. "Smith would not lie to you."

The man made an impatient movement. "It so happens, my child, that you know nothing about it. The fellow is proud, no doubt, and I cannot blame him for that, but he also has an infernal temper. And that's why he left to get even with me. But he bit off his nose to spite his face. I paid him up to two days ago. He was in such a temper that he did not stop to take his extra two days' pay, nor the money I offered him for his work as butler here the other night. I guess he's sorry by now."

"I doubt it," was the calm rejoinder. "And I do not blame him for feeling as he does. He is an honest man—and a gentleman. He has been suspected of a piece of low thievery, and the story has been told to guests in our house. But, in spite of all that, he would not have gone away like this unless he had to."

Leighton turned on his daughter angrily. "Well—if that is the way you feel about him," with a sneering laugh, "it is as well that he has gone. Since you take sides with my chauffeur against me, it is plain that his good looks have turned your head."

"Father!"

"I mean it!" he declared. "I might have seen how things were going. Perhaps you may change your tune when I tell you that 'Smith' is not the fellow's real name."

"Who says so?"

"Never mind who says so. But I will remind you that it looks queer for a man to go under an assumed name. What have you to say now?"

"Only"—Desiree rose and faced him—"what I have already intimated: that Smith is an honorable gentleman and that I trust him."

(To Be Continued)

Unscathed

Old Mr. Ballington, who was fond of relating war stories after dinner, mentioned having been in five engagements. "That's not so much," said little Georgie soldierly. "Why, Georgie," cried his scandalized mother, "what do you mean?" "Five ain't many," persisted Georgie; "sister Mary has been engaged nine times!"

Stocks Strong and Active in New York and Boston; Motor and Accessory Issues Lead Markets

HIGH RECORDS REACHED BY NINE

Profit Taking Diminishes Gains Near the Close of Trading

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York during the morning, but just before the close the usual week-end profit taking broadened and final prices were below the highest. In some cases they were wiped out. Steels and equipments were weak. Motors remained the leaders. Issues to sell at the highest prices they have ever reached included Pierce-Arrow, White Motor, American Woolen common, Endicott Johnson, Kelly Springfield, Hide & Leather preferred, Pond Creek, American Ship and Commerce and Pressed Steel Car.

At their highest during the morning Pierce Arrow was up 5⅝ at 97½, White, 7⅛ at 79¾, General Motors, 3½ at 308; Maxwell, 3⅝, and Studebaker, 4⅝. Mullins Body sold at 50 on the day of its debut. Kelly Springfield was up 2⅜ at 154½, and Kelsey Wheel, 8 at 109.

STRONG AT OPENING.

Strength characterized the market at the opening, the advance being general, although not large. There was improvement during the first hour, prices working upward. As a group steels were rather weak, while motors were decidedly strong as well as active. Oils gained, but not to a marked degree. Shipping shares were quiet on the whole. Atlantic Gulf and American Ship & Commerce opened higher, but the former reacted. Among the strongest stocks were a number of specialties. Pierce Arrow and White were conspicuous for early gains among motors. Equipments were firm and quiet. Coppers were rather weak. Southern Pacific was the only rail to attract attention.

SPECIALTIES MAKE GAINS.

Among prominent specialties were California Packing, Kelsey Wheel, Barrett Co., Transue and Williams. They advanced from two to eight points within an hour. Trading was of a professional character this morning, as was the case yesterday. The latest advance is credited chiefly to covering by shorts. While important financial interests profess confidence in the future, they are showing conservatism as to commitments at present. There is little comfort for Wall Street out of news from Washington. Pools are not so active. The recent rally did not prove as alluring as usual to that class of speculators known as the public.

OFFERING OF PIERCE OIL PREFERRED STOCK

Net earnings of the Pierce Oil Corporation increased from $2,482,151 in 1916 to $3,773,726 last year and a still greater gain is expected from development of its properties in the Ranger and other fields. Lehman Brothers and Goldman, Sachs and Co., of New York are offering $105 and accrued dividend, to yield 7.60 per cent., a block of cumulative convertible preferred stock of the Pierce Oil Corporation. This is the balance of the original issue of $15,000,000, about $9,200,000 having been used for conversion of debentures or disposed of by private sale.

The preferred stock has a conversion feature which permits the exchange of each share of preferred for four shares of class B common stock, ($25 par) any time before Jan. 1, 1923. This common has no voting power.

From the proceeds of the financing sufficient funds will be placed in escrow to pay off the ten-year debentures and five-year notes at the end of the current year.

SILK FIRM TAKES OVER FAIRHAVEN BARRACKS

New York, Oct. 18.—The buildings in Fairhaven which were used during the war as barracks for the Naval Reserve Force have been leased by the National Spun Silk Company of this city and will be fitted up for the manufacture of silk yarn. The buildings at one time were occupied by the Atlas Tack Company, and thousands of dollars were spent for improvements after the Navy Department took over the property. It was turned back to the owners at the close of the war.

Wool Sales in Texas

Ranges throughout the western part of Texas are being restocked with sheep and it is expected that wool concentration at Mertzon for next year will total 2,000,000 or more pounds. More than 1,000,000 pounds stored in that State this year have been marketed. The last of the warehouse stock, amounting to 400,000 pounds, was sold a few days ago.

August Steel Exports

Exports from this country of steel and iron during August were valued at $75,831,962 and for seven months amounted to $684,661,816. Gains over August last year were in shipments of rails, structural steel and tools.

Structural Steel Sales

Sales of structural steel during September are estimated at about 141,000 tons, the Bridge Builders and Structural Society reporting commitments for that month as about 78¾ per cent. of rated capacity.

American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co.

The Directors of the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Company have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) per share on the preferred capital stock, payable November 1, 1919, to stockholders of record October 24, 1919.

F. W. BATCHELDER, Secretary.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC & MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

A Dividend of two per cent. ($1.00 per share) on the COMMON Stock of this Company for the quarter ending September 30, 1919, will be paid October 31, 1919, to Stockholders of record as of October 3, 1919.

H. F. BAETZ, Treasurer.

New York, September 24, 1919.

Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company

The Directors have this day declared a dividend of $1.50 per share, payable Monday, October 27, 1919, to stockholders of record at 3 o'clock p. m., Friday, October [illegible]

[illegible] ALLEN, Treasurer.

MULLINS BODY THE LOCAL FEATURE

Boston Market Advances and Has Breadth and Activity

The Boston market had a good opening, having breadth at the beginning and an upward trend. It continued strong during the morning. Trading was brisk, especially for a Saturday session. Mullins Body was the feature, showing more than five points gain before noon. This advance took it to a new highest record price. It sold even higher in New York, where it was traded in for the first time on the big exchange. Other stocks to sell at record highs in Boston were Davis-Daly, Parish & Bingham and Pond Creek.

Other strong stocks included Swift International, Mexican Investment and Pacific Mills. Among weak issues were Calumet & Arizona, Osceola and U. S. Smelting, they declining a point each.

Gray & Davis, National Leather, Carson Hill and Root & Van Dervoort were all active and fractionally higher.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Pond Creek management will seriously seek for oil on the 80,000 acres of land owned by this corporation and an eminent geologist will be on the property within a few days. Oil has been found less than three miles from the boundary.

A local financial publication remarks regarding Davis Daly: "It is no exaggeration to say that the ore values the company has been uncovering on the lower levels of its mine are little short of phenomenal. In the first eight months of this year ore averaged 9 per cent. copper and over $6.50 per ton in silver."

President C. C. Prindle of the Helvetia Copper Co. states that the three wells on the leases near San Antonio are now producing an average of seven barrels of high grade oil daily for each well.

Supplant Coal With Oil

The use of oil as a fuel in New England industrial plants is extending. The Atlantic Mills of Providence and the Plymouth Cordage Company are equipping their plants for oil. Their coal consumption aggregated 60,000 tons a year.

Lumber Trade Situation

In the lumber trade there is expectation of a building boom next Spring despite the high cost of labor and materials. There is little change in the domestic situation at present and foreign demand for American timber is quiet.

Federal Land Bank Loans

Loans during September by the Federal Land banks were to 2841 farmers and totalled $8,400,360.

Russia's Low Productivity

According to Dr. J. M. Goldstein, professor of political economy at the University of Moscow, Russia was always practically "a pauper country" because of low productivity in both agriculture and industry. In speaking of the situation before the war, he said: "Russia's agricultural production per capita of rural population was only $30, compared with $200 for the United States. Her industrial products had a value of only $160 per capita in 1909, while in the United States the average per capita amounted at that time, to approximately $2,250."

HIGH PREMIUM BEING PAID FOR SILVER

Chinese demand for silver is so insistent that a high premium is being paid in New York for the white metal. When the "official price" was $1.18½ an ounce one day this week it sold at $1.21½ for San Francisco delivery. Nowadays dealers are paying little attention to the London or "official" price.

"The existence," it is said, "of a large premium being paid in this market indicates that New York is operating more or less independently of London."

Cotton Market

New York, Oct. 18.—Offerings were larger at the opening of the cotton market, and with the exception of October, which started higher, the market was 10 to 25 points lower. Declines were caused by bearish week-end figures. Wall street, commission house and New Orleans interests bought at the decline, while brokers having Southern connections were the chief early sellers. Liverpool traded both ways. After the opening the market was irregular, selling off 30 points under last night's close, but rallying later about 10 points.

Opening prices were: October, 34.25; December, 34.18; January, 33.75; March, 33.35; May, 33.10; July, 32.95.

SUFFRAGE TEA IN ARLINGTON THURSDAY

The first social event of the season of the Arlington Equal Suffrage League will be an afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. George Winslow Perkins, clerk of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, and Mrs. True Worthy White, president of the league, next Thursday. Arlington suffragists will contribute a "delicatessen shop" to the Victory Bazaar for American Citizenship at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, December 15, 16 and 17. Mrs. Roscoe Y. Conklin is in charge of the arrangements.

'ANTI-CATHOLIC' RUMORS ARE DENIED

Fatherless Children of France Organization Is Praised by Church

Rumors that the Fatherless Children of France organization is becoming anti-Catholic are denied by the committee in charge of collections in Boston. In support of the denial, letters from two Catholic dignitaries of France were published, warmly commending the work of the organization. The letters were from Canon Cabanel, military chaplain of the "Blue Devils," and from Cardinal Amette, Archbishop of Paris.

Cardinal Amette's letter follows:

"I learn that the work called the 'Fatherless Children of France' is still being made in the United States the object of unjustified attacks, as a result of confusing it with another organization which could not inspire Catholics with the same confidence.

"I should like to say again that, after repeated investigations, I have reached the conviction that the funds collected by this work are distributed to the orphans with entire impartiality and complete respect for the religious convictions of families.

"I again express my thanks for all that generous America is doing, and wishes to do, for the dear children of France whose fathers have given their lives for their country and for the cause of right."

Mrs. Jasper Whiting, chairman of the Boston committee, urges that the attacks cease, before they embarrass collections for a worthy cause.

Among the prominent Bostonians serving in active or honorary capacities on the local committee are President Emeritus Eliot, Professor Barrett Wendell, Allan Forbes, Miss Elizabeth S. Crafts, Rev. Dr. Paul R. Frothingham, Mrs. G. Richmond Fearing, William Endicott and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw.

CALL BLOODHOUNDS IN HUNT FOR OUTLAW

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 18.—John Cota, alleged forger, who turned outlaw, continued today to defy the police and military forces of Lamoille County, and to roam at will through the Belvidere Mountains. Cota is well known among the hill people and it is believed they are helping to hide him. The posse has been enlarged since Cota fired upon the officers and fought his way out of a lonely house near Johnson, after it had been surrounded. Bloodhounds are being tested in case they are needed in the man hunt, and a number of wealthy Burlington young men have joined the chase for excitement.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO

(MASSACHUSETTS CORPORATION)

OFFERS $3,000,000

7% PREFERRED STOCK

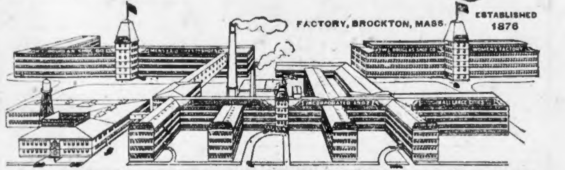
PREFERRED AS TO DIVIDENDS AND ASSETS

PAR VALUE $100.00, NON-ASSESSABLE.

CAPITALIZATION

	AUTHORIZED	OUTSTANDING
7 Per Cent Preferred Stock	$5,500,000	$2,500,000
Common Stock	1,000,000	1,000,000

Dividends have been paid regularly for the past seventeen years. Payable January 1st and July 1st. There is no better 7 per cent investment in the United States.



If you are looking for a safe and permanent investment we believe this 7 per cent stock will appeal to you. It is an old established business. The net earnings available for dividends after the Federal tax and all other taxes were paid during the past four years have averaged nearly four times the dividends on the preferred stock outstanding. W. L. Douglas name is known throughout the world. The trade mark is a very valuable asset worth millions of dollars, and is the property of the stockholders. It is one of the most valuable trade marks in the United States.

You would make no mistake to order at once as many shares of this stock as you can afford to buy, price $100.00 per share. If you care for more particulars fill out the coupon and mail at once. Application will be made to have this stock listed upon the stock exchange.

This company owns and operates 106 W. L. Douglas shoe stores located in the large cities. W. L. Douglas shoes are also sold by over 9,000 shoe dealers in the United States.

The past few years our shoes have been more extensively advertised than ever before. Stamping W. L. Douglas name and the retail price on the bottom of the shoes before they leave the factory has saved the wearers millions of dollars, and guarantees them the best shoes in style, comfort and service that can be produced for the price.

A great demand for W. L. Douglas shoes has sprung up in leading countries in Europe and Asia. Our domestic business has increased so that our sales have actually doubled in four years. In 1915 the sales were $8,069,628.41 and in 1918 $16,680,343.46. The past six months' business was at the rate of over $20,000,000 per year.

In common with other great businesses we need additional capital to meet the urgent requirements of increasing domestic and foreign trade. The new conditions of business also demand more capital. The cost of labor and material has nearly doubled so that twice the amount of capital necessary under the old business conditions is now required.

Here's a Complaining Soldier

And If the Facts Are as He Believes Them to Be, No Wonder He Is Discontented

Copyright, 1919, Star Company.

What are Americans doing in Silesia, where more than two thousand have just been sent to act as soldier policemen? What business have Americans in Trau, where United States marines were landed recently to keep the Italians from doing something that somebody thought Italians ought not to do?

What business have our men in Siberia, or anywhere in Russia, a country with which we are not at war?

Here is a letter from a soldier, printed just as received. Read it. You can easily see that it is authentic. Naturally the name is not printed with it. It comes a long way and ought to be published:

Dear Mr. Editor—I am taking the liberty of writing to you in regard to a few questions I would like to have answered, if possible.

Have the people of the United States given as much as a single thought about the volunteer and drafted men who were sent to Siberia to fight the Hun?

Do the people know that now we are not fighting the Hun, and that the armistice was signed many months ago, and finally, peace terms signed?

Do they (the people) know that we (the volunteers and drafted men) are policing Siberia for reasons unknown?

Do they know that the American troops are the only allied soldiers of twelve nations who go around the city without being armed?

Do they know that we are in danger of losing our lives at any moment because we do not know who our enemy is?

Do they know that, even in the heart of these cities, American soldiers have been bayoneted and died of such wounds?

Do they know that twenty-four men were massacred, and thirty seriously wounded by Bolshevists, and that American soldiers are being killed every day by unknown enemies?

Do they know that American troops are under orders not to shoot if attacked?

Do they know that on April 26, 1919, the War Department cabled the commanding general A. E. F., Siberia (cable No. 225) as follows: "Recruits from United States will be sent you in detachments of five hundred for assignment to your command," and that three transports (only one each month) have come to this port, bringing only eleven men as replacement troops for the emergency men of these forces?

Do they know that War Department cable No. 225 was published to the command in order to boost the morale, while a letter from the adjutant-general of the army, under date of May 29, 1919, to the commanding general of this expedition, informed the commanding general that enlistments for Siberia were so slow that recruits would not be sent in detachments of five hundred, but would be sent as fast as enlisted? This letter was, of course, not published to the command. Is that playing the game straight?

Do they know that the morale of the men is exactly 100 per cent. lower than it was six months ago?

Do they know that no amusement whatsoever is being furnished these men?

Do they know that out of 100 per cent. of the men who never touched liquor 75 per cent. are now drinking themselves to ruin?

Do they know that 60 per cent. of the men are diseased and conditions are becoming worse every day that we are here?

Do they know that the American Red Cross have been feeding the very people, during the past Winter, who are now the direct cause of many of our soldiers being returned to the United States in caskets?

Do they know that the Russians we are aiding in their fight with the Bolsheviks are the ones who are spreading propaganda and even killing our men, and for no other purpose than to force the Americans to fight their battles, while they sit in restaurants and idle their time away over a glass of tea?

Finally, Mr. Editor, do you think they know that the war is over with Germany and that we would like to return to our business affairs in the United States, the same as the men in France?

"A VOLUNTEER."

Are You Hitting on All Your Cylinders?

Are You Worth as Much as You Can Be to Yourself and Your Employer? Have You Ever Taken Account of Stock? Now Is a Good Time to Do It

Copyright, 1919, Star Company.

Mr. Hoover, coming back from the job of catering to Europe, says that the only preventive for political, moral and economic chaos is greater production.

Greater production depends upon the individual.

Every man and woman should ask the personal question, "Am I producing my share?"

If you cannot answer "Yes," then something is wrong with you and you must correct it.

No matter how small your task or of how little importance your endeavors, it is your duty to make the most of it and to give the greatest service you can.

You may say, "My employer will not appreciate my doing any more than I am doing now."

Perhaps not. There happens now and then that sort of an employer, but he is a good deal scarcer than you think.

The average employer realizes and knows that it is selfishly for his interests to recognize enterprise and effort on the part of those who work for him.

If he was buying a machine and one make turned out twice the product of another, he would be financially foolish if he was not willing to pay a higher price for the more productive mechanism.

Of course an employer should not look on his workmen as machines, and wise manufacturers do not, but so far as efficiency and effort and enterprise go he would be unwise not to encourage the man who displays those characteristics.

Where there is force there is never inactivity.

"There is no rest," said Clemenceau to the Deputies of France, and by "rest" the great Frenchman meant the passive leisure which is the opposite of healthy, passionate struggling against adverse forces.

The fighter trains for battle. He fits himself to strike his hardest blow.

The workers, and we should all be workers, should aim to increase capacity, enlarge output, add to ability and value.

Every sound merchant once in so often takes account of stock.

He finds out accurately what his resources are and how profitably he is using them.

It would be a fine thing and a wise thing for everybody to follow his example.

Are you worth more to yourself and to your employer than you were six months ago?

If you are not, you are cheating yourself as much or more than you are cheating him.

The days of two-cylinder engines are gone.

They made a lot of noise, but they burned too much gasoline getting a short distance.

But a twelve-cylinder machine that is only hitting on two is only getting one-sixth of its possible power, and is no better than the old-fashioned makeshift.

Not so good in fact, for it is carrying more useless weight.

If you are wasting your own fuel or power you are also wasting TIME, and time you cannot borrow, buy or steal.

See if you are as productive as you should be.

If you are not, NOW is the time to find out why.

PARIS, FRANCE.
MY DEAR Serge.
I'VE JUST read in the paper.
OF THE work you've done.
IN GRAFTING glands.
FROM YOUNG he-goats.
TO OLD he-goats.
AND MAKING the old ones.
YOUNG AGAIN.
AND OF how you intend.
WITH THE glands of an ape.
TO PUT new life.
INTO WEAK old men.
AND ADD many years.
TO THE lives of men.
AND IT'S quite sensational.
AND ALL very wonderful.
AND I'M very glad.
BECAUSE IT won't be long.
BEFORE THE years'll get me.
AND I'LL be in the market.
FOR A gland or two.
BUT NEVER mind that.
* * *
WHAT I'M writing you for.
IS JUST to suggest.
THAT YOU look around.
WHEN YOU'RE searching for glands.
AND TRY to locate.
WHATEVER IT is.
THAT LIES in an ape.
THAT KEEPS him content.
WITH HIS own wooded world.
AND THAT when he has eaten.
AND HAS played at his games.
AND FOOLED with his kids.
CAN CLIMB his own tree.
AND FIND his own bed.
AND GO off to sleep.
AND NOT lie awake.
OR RUN around days.
JUST THINKING out schemes.
AND WORKING out schemes.
SO THAT he can grab.
A LOT of the food.
THAT THE other apes need.
AND HE can't eat himself.
AND STORE it away.
AND IF it should prove.
YOU CAN find what it is.
THAT LIES in the ape.
THAT MAKES him that way.
I WANT to suggest.
THAT IF it is possible.
YOU CUT the thing out.
AND GET a whole shipload.
AND COME over here.
AND GRAFT them on us.
BUT THE way it is now.
MY DEAR Voronoff.
YOU'RE WASTING your time.
BECAUSE THERE'S nobody here.
WITH THE mess that we're in.
WHO IS foolish enough.
TO ADD to his years.
WHEN THE years that he has.
IF THEY don't soon improve.
WILL LEAD him to cry.
"BRING OVER the ape.
"AND I'LL go over there."

I THANK you.

Letters to the Editor

Give the Boys Jobs

Headquarters U. S. Army
Cantonment.
Camp Devens, Oct. 15, 1919.

Editor Boston American:

I am writing a little line to ask the help of your valuable paper for those who will be discharged before the last day of this month and who are at present seeking positions. These men are some of the best men we have had in the service, especially from a business standpoint, and yet, I believe, so many people believe that the war is over and the army demobilized that they do not realize that there are some men who have given a tremendous amount of time loyally and patriotically to the government and who now need positions for the winter. Here are the facts:

Most employers feel that the army is demobilized and that all men have positions. Between now and October 31st there will be over 90,000 officers and men discharged from the army, quite a number of whom are New England men. These men who are now being released have been held for the convenience of the government and most all of them have been working day and night to help their more fortunate comrades to be discharged and to return to civilian pursuits. You know as well as I do that their work has been constant and hard and that they are coming home without any bands playing and there won't be any mayors to congratulate them on blowing up a dugout or capturing a young army single-handed. They will just do this—get themselves discharged, quietly take a train and slip home to hunt a job, and it is my personal belief that a whole lot of them are entitled to the utmost consideration on the part of the employers who need good men, because they have certainly served the country during the continuous grind of demobilization without any inspiration of bands, parades, etc.

To a large extent they have been the most competent men for business purposes that we have had, otherwise they would not have been retained to shoulder the tremendous burden of demobilization which required system and a well ordered plan. Can't you go to it and help them out by telling some of the employers, through your paper, that these men are entitled to consideration if the employers want live-wires, brains, ability and stick-to-it-iveness. It is a bad time of the year to get a job and if you can help in the columns of your paper it will be appreciated to the fullest extent by all of these men and will make them feel, I am sure, that a great publication has not forgotten them and their loyal service to the country.

A. B. HITCHCOCK,
Major, Infantry, U. S. A.
Camp Morale Officer.

Science Notes

A sagebrush plow has been invented that is said to be capable of turning under thickets of brush six feet high.

Electricity obtained from Swedish waterfalls provides about one-half the mechanical power used in that country.

All the doors and drawers of a new kitchen cabinet swing at different angles, so that when opened the entire contents can be seen at once.

To permit one-armed persons to draw a German has invented drawing boards equipped with electromagnets, to which current is directed by foot switches to hold metal T-squares and triangles.

Camels imported from Asia have been tried in Australia with fair success for hauling wagons in regions lacking railroads.

Labels have been invented to be attached to bathroom towel racks to designate which towels are intended for guests to use.

Stars and Stripes

There is one inalienable right no man should surrender. No matter how devoted his wife, he should be permitted to pick his own ears.

Splendid News for School Teachers of Boston

The School Committee is unanimous in its determination to pay public school teachers living salaries. The Boston Sunday Advertiser tomorrow will contain three special articles of tremendous importance to every teacher in Boston. Within six weeks the committee will have decided on the exact budget needed and will demand a special appropriation from the Legislature. If Mayor Peters should veto the salary increases voted, the committee has the power to override his veto by four votes out of the total of five. And the committee is unanimous!

The Boston Sunday Advertiser will publish tomorrow the results of a canvass of Boston junior masters. It shows that with salary of only $2,322 per annum, these men with families, their children nearing maturity, are from $300 to $1,000 behind each year on their expenses—eating the simplest foods, their wives acting as cooks and washerwomen; no autos, books, theatres, music lessons for the children; savings exhausted. When our overworked school teachers should be enjoying their Summer vacations they are working in Summer schools, selling books, correcting papers for colleges, in the scramble for existence.

Here is food for thought for every Boston father, mother and official.

The demand of the world of commerce for foreign trade experts has resulted in the establishment at Harvard University of a chair of foreign trade. The new department, headed by Professor George B. Roorbach, will bring scientific information on world trade into the field of commerce. Tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser will contain a description of this educational innovation and an illuminating interview with the head of the new department that will be of great interest to all business men.

Brown University has taken steps to meet one of the most pressing of the reconstruction problems—the lack of officers for the United States Merchant Marine. She has established a school of nautical science, whose graduates will be qualified for positions as third officers after a period of sea training. An article explaining this new departure in university training appears tomorrow in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"Japan can dictate the destiny of America," declares Marquis Okuma, former Premier of Japan and that empire's "grand old man."

A remarkably frank—even audacious—article by the marquis, in which he refers to the United States as a "conceited, stubborn and insolent nation," appears in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser. It throws a new light on the diplomacy of the Orient and is of tremendous interest to all who appreciate the menace of the Far Eastern situation.

For example, the marquis asserts:

"The balance between the two powers (America and England) is skilfully maintained at present, but if Japan should side with either of them this balance would be instantly destroyed. If Japan * * * should join hands with one side the other would receive a tremendous blow materially and spiritually."

The menace of Japanese penetration in California has alarmed the entire Pacific coast of the United States. A summary of the Oriental peril right in this country is contained in an eye-opening article tomorrow. Japanese own already 200,000 fertile acres in California. Fully 100,000 Japanese are residents of that State. Los Angeles is the "Tokio of America," with 20,000 of them.

Professor Dugald C. Jackson of "Tech," chief engineer of the War Damage Board, says he "cannot put into words the vastness of the destruction" resulting from the war. But he has put into vivid phrases a startling summary of the world's consequent economic and industrial situation. "Produce—or starve," is his message. "Work, save, co-operate and produce. If this nation will set itself to real creative conservation and intensified production it will, in five years, occupy a place of pre-eminence in the world."

Philadelphia shows Ten-Cent-Fare Boston how Five-Cent Trolley Fares pay the stockholders Five Per Cent. Dividends. President Mitten of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, in an exclusive article in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser, tells how the bankrupt transportation system of the Quaker City was rejuvenated, carmen's wages DOUBLED, obsolete cars replaced with modern rolling stock and, after only eight years, substantial return paid to the owners of the $30,000,000 capital stock.

Satisfied employes, with far greater co-operative efficiency, accidents reduced to a minimum and general betterment of service are pointed out by Mr. Mitten as factors that win financial success with low costs to the traveling public.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Jerome K. Jerome, brilliant British novelists, have taken sides on the question of life after death, the existence of spirits and communication with the dead. Doyle, best known as the creator of "Sherlock Holmes," finds in spiritualism signs and wonders similar to the miracles described in the Bible, and considers table rapping disclosures the most wonderful discovery of the age.

Jerome, who is the author of "Three Men in a Boat" and various other books, differs strongly with his friend Sir Arthur, and wants to know why the alleged spirits do not offer information of assistance to the human race instead of talking with tambourines about pet dogs and other minor topics.

The arguments and rebuttals of these distinguished authors, presented side by side, appear in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The Jewish race numbers 16,000,000. Six millions—more than one-third—are today standing in bread lines or being fed at soup kitchens abroad. Nathan Straus, the noted philanthropist, pictures the plight of this sick, hungry, homeless horde. The approach of Winter brings a crisis. The American Jewish Relief Committee is spending more than $2,000,000 a month—yet this is only a dollar a month for three persons. Mr. Straus shows how life or death for thousands depends upon the measure of America's increased assistance.

The most pretentious Jewish drive for funds in the history of Boston opens tomorrow night. The campaign will be for $400,000, for the financing of the work of the Federated Jewish Charities.

Two of the foremost Jews of the nation, Colonel A. H. Guinsberg and Colonel Herbert A. Lehman of New York, will address a great banquet opening the drive. Their message will interest every Bostonian of Jewish affiliations. A complete account in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"Charlie" Bradford, the aged Lynnfield inventor who died in a motorcycle accident, made others rich, but not himself. The sewing machine was his invention; his automatic fishing reel is the boon of every Izaak Walton; shoes can't be made without his [illegible] device. Yet he died comparatively poor.
